

When you're four years old, you've got more important things to do than worry about living to be five.

You've got pictures to draw. Balls to catch. Castles to build. And, if you're like Peggy, you've got time for it all. Even if you were born with a defective heart valve. Even if you did spend the first two years of your life in a hospital bed. Even if no one thought you'd make it to kindergarten. Why? Because Peggy had a few million people on her side. Scientists and physicians all over the country who've dedicated their lives to fighting heart disease—the nation's number one killer—and who have continued through the years to find the solutions we need to beat it. Without research, thousands of lives would have ended too soon. And 4-year-olds like Peggy would be playing like there's no tomorrow.
