WOMEN OF SOUTH AFRICA presents two films, each looking at a different aspect of women living under apartheid. "Maids and Madams" looks at the very heart of the relationship between black and white South African women. (Pictured) An organizing session of black and white women working together to improve conditions for black domestic workers. (6/25/86, 10:00 p.m. ET, 90 minutes)

Women of South Africa

Portraits of women living under apartheid
Sunday, June 1, 2 p.m.

The lives of black and white South African women — their trials and their triumphs as they struggle with the racism and oppression of apartheid — are presented in Women of South Africa on Oregon Public Broadcasting.

Through two films, "Maids and Madams," and "South Africa Belongs to Us," host Nadine Gordiner looks into the heart of the relationship between black and white South African women, and the impact of apartheid on their lives.

In its American Premiere, "Maids and Madams" reveals the nurseries and parlors of white South African households, where black women are "maids;" domestic servants who work more than ten hours a day caring for the families of their white "madams" while their own homes and families are thousands of miles away.

"South Africa Belongs to Us," presents an in depth look at the economic and emotional burden borne by black women in South Africa. But it also shows the hope of the emergent black South African woman in the bold dignity of Winnie Mandela, and in the story of a black woman who moves to squat illegally in town.

Rappers Delight

It's a shame to see someone that can't admit their fate and they don't even have the heart to look themselves in the face cause if they looked in the mirror what would they see a based out version of reality.

The silhouette of an image through a cloud of smoke one that everyone can use for basehead jokes so if you think it's not funny don't get involved get into dope you're gonna choke that's the bottom end clause.

The preceding words of wisdom do not come to you from one of America's well established Rapp Groups like RUN-DMC or the Fat Boys, they originate from a force within the Rose City known as Freak Control.

Hip Hop and Rapp music is an art form that in recent years has taken its place in the music industry as well as in the homes and hearts of America's youth. Go to any school yard and you will hear it. Turn on the tube and hear them sell anything from clothing to hamburgers via the hip hop and rapp. The more you hear anything the more familiar you become with it and every blue moon you'll run across something that stands out from the norm. Makes you take a second look and get a new perspective.

Such is the case with Freak Control. Their rapp carries a message, clear, strong, and positive and their music will make your grandmother want to party and party hard. M.C. Dee (Demetrius Webb) M.C. Tee (Robert Mitchell) and D.J. Larry Bell have a unique blend that is sure to have them busting the charts in no time at all. The music is written and played (all instruments) by their D.J. Larry Bell who can also mix and scratch with the best of them. And puts these three in the same league as Cool'R, Nu Shooz and others who write play and perform original music at clubs and social events in the Rose City.

Freak Control originated two years ago as a break dance group known as Foot Control. Demetrius Webb the founding member just wanted to do something to have fun and get others involved and ended up with a dynamite show that consists of dance, monologue, fashion and rapp. In other words a total entertainment package that few veteran groups can contend with. The group has a tour set up in California for this summer to try their wings outside of the local area to further their experience as entertainers and to hopefully land a record contract.

Folks, I'm being sincere when I tell you I really don't see anything standing in the way of their success except time and I'm proud to say you read about them first right here. Break a leg fellas!

Application forms for teams can be picked up at the Portland Observer newspaper 1463 N.E. Killingsworth, The Skanner newspaper 2337 N. Williams, The Urban League, 10 N. Williams or by calling 285-2065. The deadline for entry is June 13, 1986.

One person estimated that a train travelling at 60 miles per hour would take 176 years to reach the sun.
