MLK Scholarship

Fundraiser Held

by Jerry Garner

The Martin Luther King, Jr. Scholarship fundraiser was held last Sunday at PSU's Smith Memorial Center Ballroom. About 100 people attended the fundraiser, including gubernatorial candidate Neil Goldschmidt; Multnomah County Chair candidate Gladys McCoy; and Rick Bauman, Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate.

The Martin Luther King, Jr. Scholarship of Oregon is a non-profit educational corporation that was established in 1971. The Scholarship's purpose is to help minority students graduate from college. The Scholarship provides a year's tuition and books, counseling, and job referrals to recipients.

In order to qualify as a scholarship recipient, a student must be admitted to a college, must have a financial need, must be a full-time student, and must have a 3 point or above GPA.

Students majoring in computer science, engineering, chemistry, mathematics, biology and physics are especially encouraged to apply.

The Scholarship has provided more than 1,605 scholarships to needy students, totaling more than $388,462 in tuition and books. Some past recipients of the Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Scholarship have been: Dr. Leslie Westfield, former clinical director of the North-Northeast Community Mental Health Center; Edna Mae Pittman, Community Director for Region X on the National Council of Community Health Centers; Laura Lee Sakaguchi, an engineer at Hyster Corporation; Sandra Bell Johnson, owner/manager of Ja-Bell's Beauty and Barber Supply.

Goldschmidt told those present that he was honored to be a participant in the fundraiser in Dr. King's name. "Dr. King was the importance of a good education in relation to social and economic equality. If he was alive today, he would be saddened by the lack of commitment to education by the Reagan administration."

He said 89 percent of all tax dollars go to national security. "Education should also be a high priority of this nation and the state of Oregon."

The fundraiser held an art exhibit and auction of fine African-American and other minorities' artwork by local artists. A martial arts exhibition was presented by The Parsatd/Institute and music was provided by The Ron Steen All Star Band.
