Jackson Urges Goldschmidt

During his visit to Portland on February 1, Jesse Jackson, President of the National Rainbow Coalition, was informed of the lack of response by the Goldschmidt administration to the Black community. As a result Jackson immediately had a telegram sent to Governor Goldschmidt indicating his concern and urging the Governor to meet as soon as possible with representatives of the Black Leadership Conference. According to Jackson, "All Democrats will be better served by direct contact with representatives of the many groups that are too often ignored, especially once the elections are over."

Text of Telegram Sent By Jesse Jackson to Governor Neil Goldschmidt

February 1, 1987
Governor Neil Goldschmidt
Salem, Oregon

Dear Governor Goldschmidt,
Local members of the Black United Front and the Oregon Rainbow Coalition have advised me of difficulties they are experiencing in contacting your office. To avoid any potential for further alienation I urge you to meet as soon as possible with representatives of the Black Leadership Conference. It is crucial to resolve the communications problems and to set in motion continuing contacts to address substantive issues in Oregon. All Democrats will be better served by direct contact with representatives of the many groups that are too often ignored, especially once the elections are over.

Sincerely,
Jesse L. Jackson, President
National Rainbow Coalition
