Diagnostic Services

Addiction Diagnostic Services begins Addiction Diagnosis and Treatment Program after nine years of research.

A.D.S. concluded its research on March 19, 1987, on the "Diagnosis and Treatment of the Addictive Process", which includes addiction to tobacco, alcohol, drugs, food (obesity), sugar and salt.

During the nine years of research, much information on the addictive process was reviewed and tested. However, only one diagnostic and treatment method proved to be consistently accurate and effective for diagnosing and treating the addictive process over the long term.

Larutan Analysis and Treatment was the only method that went to the heart and root of the addictive process and provided long term results for individuals who are addicted to habit-forming substances and attitudes.

Other addiction treatment procedures, methods and programs singled out addictive substances: such as alcohol or drugs, and tried to treat the symptoms by masking the addictive drive, or by substituting another addictive substance.

Larutan Analysis and Treatment goes beyond the addictive symptoms of an individual all the way to the heart and root of the addictive process within that particular individual.

The Larutan Analysis and Treatment method has proven to be just as effective for children from 11 or 12 years of age as for adults.

The cost of Larutan Analysis and Treatment is $90.00 per hour.
