Lvisah Teish, a priestess of Oshun in the Yoruba tradition and the author of the book "Jambalaya", visited Portland last weekend and renewed old acquaintances from the days when she attended Reed College and Pacific University. Dancer, storyteller and spiritual counselor, she leads workshops and classes all over the country. Invoking the spirits of the ancestors through Yoruba stories, rituals, and dance, Teish introduces people to ancestral powers inherent in their ancient selves, and helps them to experience the power of dance movements traditionally used to achieve the trance state. Teish was one of the featured speakers at the third annual Festival of Women's Spirituality near Salem, OR, last weekend.
