

Early Sign-Up Urged For New Student Orientation

If you've been admitted to the University of Oregon starting fall term, now is the time to sign up for the 1987 Early Orientation and Registration Program (EORP).

During July and early August, entering freshman can become better acquainted with the campus, receive personalized academic advice and register ahead of time for fall classes, according to Roger Morris, UO orientation director.

Special sessions addressing questions and concerns of parents are included in the program.

Morris said students need to register by July 8 to be sure of receiving appointments with their advisors. EORP draws more than 3,000 entering freshman and their parents to campus each summer.

Four two-day programs are scheduled on July 19-20, 23-24, 26-27 and July 31-Aug. 1. For those who can spend just one day in Eugene, a day session focusing only upon academic advising and registration is set for July 25.

The service fee of $30 for students includes a UO catalog and an outdoor luncheon. Parents may participate for $7 each.

For more information, contact the UO Orientation Office, 686-3218.
