

LIBRARY AUTOMATED SYSTEMS ASSISTANT (Research Assistant)

Kerr Library, Oregon State University. B.S. in Computer Science, Computer Education, or related field required. M.L.S. or M.S. and library, computer teaching, and research experience preferred. Experience with microcomputers (Apply, HP, & IBM) required. Ability to communicate clearly orally and in writing with experience of potential for managing a microcomputer lab and software collection. Position available July 15, 1987. To apply send resume and three letters of reference by June 30, 1987. For further information write:

Robert Baker
Kerr Library
OSU
Corvallis, OR 97331
or phone
(503) 754-4641

Oregon State University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer and complies with Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

EDUCATION: MENTOR SPECIALIST

Coordinate and implement all aspects of the mentorship component of Career Pathways Program including recruitment, training, assignments, follow-up and evaluation. Half-time, 12 months, temporary. Must have BA, experience with non-traditional, culturally diverse high school students and with Portland business community. To apply, send letter of application, resume, and 2 letters of reference to:

Judy Witt, Director
Office of Special Services
Portland State University
Portland, OR 97207-0751

Closing date: July 8, 1987

PSU is an
Equal Opportunity Employer

SYSTEMS ANALYST

8 Mo. position. Assist in the development of the Traffic Safety Data Library, an on-line index of traffic safety information. Analyzes and inventories traffic safety computer files in cooperating governmental agencies. Prepares program specifications and develops procedures to access, organize and retrieve traffic safety information. Qualifications: BA in Systems Analysis or equivalent, strong service orientation and excellent communication skills. Contract amount for 8 months, $15,944. Please send letter and resume to:

The TSADL Project
Oregon State
Library Foundation
State Library Bldg.
Salem, OR 97310
1-585-8059

Equal Opportunity Employer

CONSTRUCTION JOBS

Strong emphasis on minority males and females experienced in construction. Emphasis on heavy equipment operators, cement masons, iron workers and carpenters for highway bridge construction. Send construction work history or resume to:

MSA
Dept. U
P.O. Box 11252
Portland, OR 97211

POSITION OPEN

EDITOR

Jewish Review, serving Portland and Southwest Washington, seeking editor. Require experience in newspaper industry, writing skills, editorial background, management, layout skills, familiarity with Jewish community. Salary negotiable. Send resume and writing samples to: Personnel Committee, Jewish Review, P.O. Box 40728, Portland, OR 97240.

NEWS

OF EDUCATION

An investment in America's future.

That's the theme of the United Negro College Fund's 1985 Corporate Fundraising Campaign led for the second year by Hugh Cullman, vice chairman of Philip Morris Incorporated. Educated citizens, the theory goes, make better citizens.

Just how good an investment is the Fund?

All Americans could be better off if more Americans got a better education.

The Fund has provided first rate educations for many thousands of deserving young people, many of whom required both remedial and financial support. Nine out of every ten of the 45,000 students on UNCF campuses require some financial help in order to go to school.

In 1984, the UNCF raised $30.7 million, with 35 percent coming from the business community. The Fund has long demonstrated the capacity for saving young minds that might have been lost to both discrimination and indifference. These minds include Daniel "Chappie" James, the first black, four-star Air Force General and Arlington Finley, a Philip Morris inorganic chemist in Richmond, VA.

Others on the long list of "American heroes" who have graduated from the Fund's 43 predominantly black colleges are Leontyne Price, the opera star, Frank Yerby, the novelist, Sharnia "Tab" Buford, President of New York's Freedom National Bank, Dr. John Hope Franklin, the noted historian and Lionel Richie, the singer/song writer.

Each of the current mayors of Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans and Washington, D.C. are also UNCF alumnae. It would seem to be an investment that's paying off for all Americans.