Firehouse Theater's Weiss Retires

Founder and artistic director of the Portland Park Bureau's Firehouse Theater for the past 21 years, Florine E. Weiss will retire from her position effective July 8.

After attending Portland's Jefferson High School, Ms. Weiss graduated from the professional drama school at Chicago's Goodman Memorial Theater in 1953 and went to work in radio, night clubs, summer stock, and burlesque in the mid-west and Florida.

Upon her return to Portland in 1958, she began directing theater and teaching for the Portland Bureau of Parks and Recreation. When the Park Bureau bought the old fire station on Southwest Montgomery Street, Ms. Weiss immediately began working to create the Firehouse Theater.

During her 45 years in the theater, Ms. Weiss has directed 227 productions. "The Private Ear" and "The Public Eye", currently playing at the Firehouse Theater, is the fifty-eighth production she has directed there.

Public Service Announcement

The Children's Museum invites all young-at-heart sports fans to the opening of Nike Locker Room on July 7th at 10 am. There's free frisbees for the first 200 kid visitors. Admire size 18 basketball shoes—and the shoes that leaped to fame on the feet of Rocky and Mr. T. Nike Locker Room—a kid's playspace and dressing room—is open all summer to the invasion of gymrats. This is your chance to strap on an air bag. Be there and walk on air! The Children's Museum is at 3037 SW Second Avenue, just south of downtown.
