

Catalani Named Manager For Highway Division

Ronault Latang Sajang Catalani, who was born in Indonesia, has been named labor compliance manager for the State Highway Division, Salem.

He is in charge of managing the division's Equal Employment Opportunity/Minority Business Enterprise programs.

Catalani, 34, has managed a Southeast Asian Legal Assistance Project for six counties in the Portland and Salem areas during the past four years. He was a case worker for the State Children's Service Division for one year.

Catalani was involved in an interdisciplinary graduate program in Third World community development at the University of Oregon, graduated from Willamette Law School and studied at Howard University, Washington, D.C., under a community-lawyer post-doctoral fellowship.

He is a member of the Oregon State Bar Affirmative Action Committee, on the board of the International Refugee Center of Oregon and the Northwest Voter Education and Registration Project, secretary of the Refugee Child Advisory Committee, counsel and spokesman for the Southeast Asian Legal Affairs Task Force, and was formerly secretary of the Salem Forum on Refugee Affairs and a member of the Salem Human Rights Commission.
