

Portland Indoor — World Class Track in Our Backyard

by Fred Hembrly

On January 23rd, 1988, the doors of the Portland Memorial Coliseum will open for amateur track and field competitors, both youth and adult, to display their talents.

For those who are not aware, some of these aspiring participants will be of the National-World Class stature. Among them will be Robin Marks (Olympic hopeful, 1988) of Portland, Al Joyner (U.S. Gold Medalist, Triple Jump), and Steve Scott (U.S. Record Holder in the 1500), to name a few.

The Portland Indoor has been part of the "Grand Prix" Indoor Track & Field circuit since 1987. This means national-class athletes must run in Portland, Los Angeles, or other designated meets to qualify for the National Championship meet at Madison Square Garden later this winter.

In turn, you, the spectator, will be guaranteed viewing of national track figures, as well as college and high school standouts.

There will be two meets that day. The developmental meet begins at 9:00 a.m. and runs until 5:00 p.m. The night meet begins at 7:30 p.m. It is in this meet that you will see the national-class athletes and the high school standouts.

I contacted three area coaches to get their thoughts on the meet and their athletes. They do have participants in all events, but space permitted me to list only their hardest working athletes.

Mark Cotton from Grant High School has entered Bill Sheppard in the 55 Meters Dash for men, and K.K. (miriam) Waller in the women's 55 Meter Dash. "I look on the Indoor as a circus of sorts that allows us to display our talent. I also feel that we should do well," he told me.

Alex Wright from Lincoln High School has entered James Rankin in the men's 800 Meters and Liz Fawkes in the women's 800. Coach Wright said, "I also have Mary MacDonald (W 800-1500), and the Dunn twins (M 1500). My people are incredibly fit, and we should do well in both meets, should they qualify."

"This meet affords the P.I.L. and athletes around Oregon to showcase their talent. The meet is very well-run and the national standing allows record-breaking times (National/World) to be official," commented Leon Lincoln from Madison High School. He is entering Bobby Frazier in the men's 55 Meter Dash. Debora Booth will be entered in the women's 55 Meter dash.

In light of this, anyone who breaks their normal sports-watching routine to view this event is sure to enjoy a full day of exciting track and field competition, covering the entire range of age and development. Come out and support your local athletes!

The National Black Talent Directory

In June 1988, the first edition of The National Black Talent Directory is scheduled for publication and national distribution.

The directory will provide comprehensive and singular source reference of Black talent in the entertainment business. The book not only will showcase in-front-of-the-camera performers, actors, actresses, musicians, models, athletes, etc., but also will present behind-the-scenes professionals, the directors, writers, cameramen, crew, song and script writers, make-up/costume artist and more. In addition there will be a New Face category.

The first edition of The National Directory will be published in June 1988 and distributed free-of-charge to major studios, independent production companies and casting directors nationwide. The directory will be sold (for a small fee) nationwide to public libraries, schools, and other businesses, companies, public libraries, schools and other businesses.

This will be the first edition of any national Black talent directory and is sure to create a large change of Black participation in the entertainment industry.

An approximate 2" x 4" talent window is available for $45.00 which includes a black and white headshot and additional reference/contact information. Additional space is available for personal and business advertisers.

For more information, call The National Black Talent Directories Northwest representative at (503) 288-1662 and someone will be pleased to assist you.

Registration deadline: February 15, 1988.
