

Coors Scholarship Available

GOLDEN, COLORADO — Aloph Coors Company will assist more than 100 college students for the fourth consecutive year through the Coors Veteran's Memorial Scholarship Fund program in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.

Coors, the nation's fifth-largest brewer, will provide $501,000 in scholarship funds to eligible dependents of honorably discharged American veterans. Scholarship application forms are now available through Coors distributors, veterans service organizations, by writing Coors Veterans' Memorial Scholarship Fund, P.O. Box 3111, Northbrook, Ill. 60065, or by calling toll-free 1-800-49COORS. Applications must be postmarked no later than July 1, 1988.

The scholarship program began in 1985 by Coors and its distributors nationwide, to acknowledge the sacrifices that American veterans from all wars made for our country. Each year monies area raised through a nationwide Memorial Day collection canister drive during May, as well as through various special events and beer sale donation campaigns. To date, Coors and its distributors have donated $3 million for 1,300 college scholarships and aid for local veterans service organizations.

"Coors is extremely pleased with the support this program has received from our distributors, veterans organizations and our valued customers," said Peter Coors, Brewing Division president. "We look forward to helping many more deserving college students achieve a solid education this year," he added.

Black Women's Health Activist Bylye Y. Avery to Speak in Portland

Bylye Y. Avery, Executive Director of the National Black Women's Health Project since its inception in 1980, has been a women's health care activist for ten years.

Prior to her entry into the health care arena, Ms. Avery taught special education and emotionally disturbed students, and consulted on learning disabilities in public schools and universities.

Ms. Avery co-founded the Gainesville Women's Health Center, as well as being co-founder of BIRTHPLACE, an alternative birthing center in Gainesville, Florida.

Bylye Avery served on the Board of Directors of the National Women's Health Network (NWHN) from 1977 to 1984, is currently a Board Member of the New World Foundation and appointed to the Commission of the W.T. Grant Foundation.

Bylye moved to Atlanta to open the National Black Women's Health Project offices housed at 1237 Gordon Street, S.W.

A dreamer, "visionary", and grassroots realist, Bylye Avery has combined activism and social responsibility in developing a national forum for the exploration of health issues of Black women, the gathering and documenting of the Black women's health experience in America, and the provision of a supportive atmosphere to allow Black women to come together to individually and collectively define their health care needs.

Ms. Avery will speak at Lewis and Clark College, Tuesday, April 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the Council Chambers of Templeton College Center; and will speak on Wednesday, April 13, 7 to 9 p.m. at the King Neighborhood Facility, 4815 N.E. 7th on the topic of "Linking Black Women to Wellness"

African-American Issues in Special Education to be Discussed at Forum

Parents of children in Special Education in Portland Public Schools will have an opportunity to attend a training session in student and parent legal rights and a forum addressing African American issues in Special Education on Saturday, April 23, 1988, at the Cascade Campus of Portland Community College at 705 N. Killingsworth, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

According to Marie Deatrage-Newsom, Parent Advocate with the Coalition in Oregon for Parent Education (COPE) and mother of a child with a disability,

"Parents of children in Special Education often don't realize just how much power they have under federal and state law to determine their child's education program. We are calling the workshop 'You are the Expert' with 'you' referring to parents to show where we think parents stand."

Featured speakers include Education Advocates Karen Powell and Sherrian Haggard of the American Friends Service Committee, a co-sponsor of the event with COPE; Suzy Harris, staff at torney at the Oregon Advocacy Center; and Niki Smith, COPE.

There is no charge for the six-hour session, and lunch is provided. Parents of children in special education who pre-register can receive $12.50 each to help cover costs they may have (e.g., child care, transportation) while attending. If both mother and father attend, both are eligible for the funds, as are grandparents who take an active role in the life of the child in special education. To qualify for the funds, participants must pre-register and stay all six hours.

Seating is limited so those not applying for the fund are urged to pre-register as well by sending the name of each participant, address and telephone number to COPE, 2432 SE Madison, Portland, 97214. Include the name, age and disability of the child in special education, and request funds if desired.

For more information, call COPE at 234-2644.
