REQUEST FOR PROPOSAL

The Metropolitan Service District (Metro) is soliciting proposals for professional technical services to conduct the waste sort component of a waste stream characterization study. The waste sort is expected to provide the data and information for the analysis of the Metro region waste stream components. Both the waste sort and the analysis will provide the factual basis for the Metro Waste Reduction Program, and establish a baseline for long term measurement of the system performance. The selection process will be based on experience relevant to waste management issues and/or waste characterization and completion of the project within budget and schedule.

The RFP is available in the Solid Waste Department, 3rd Floor, at the above address. Potential proposers can also request proposal mailed to them by calling the Solid Waste Department at (503) 221-1646.

Proposals must be delivered to the Solid Waste Department, Metropolitan Service District, 2000 SW First Avenue, Portland, OR 97201-5398, to the attention of Gerry Uba, no later than Tuesday, February 28, 1989.

People Power

"Okay, so maybe I'm not an expert on how to win friends and influence people—yet. I'm a trained professional electrician, and a member of IBEW, Local #48. Being an electrician isn't just working with high voltage wiring systems. It's dealing with people. So when the NECA/IBEW Metro Training Program offered us union workers and contractors a Dale Carnegie course, I snapped it up. So did these guys. That's Clifton sitting down and Jim standing next to him. They're both journeymen. And Clair—he's a NECA contractor project manager. I'm Denise—the one in the middle. I'm a journeyman, too. We're proud of our work. Sure the NECA/IBEW Metro Training Program lets us fine tune our technical skills. It helps me stay updated on code changes, and know the latest technological advancements. But more than that, classes like the Carnegie course give us the chance to improve our human relations skills. And that's important. Because traditional values really do work best. After all, our job isn't just about electrical power—it's all about people!"
