Pancho Tomby Relocates

A quiet renaissance is slowly germinating along the newly renamed Martin Luther King Boulevard. Evidence of this fact is the re-opening of the old Saltzman garage located at the intersection of Shaver Street.

Bill's Complete Auto Service occupied that piece of property last month. They will cater to all of the automotive needs of the general public. The head mechanic is Mr. William Tomby, an African American who hails originally from Dallas, Texas. He moved to the Portland area about five years ago an established his first automotive service at Portland Boulevard and Martin Luther King Boulevard. When his booming business began to grow, Mr. Tomby began to look around for a new location. When young Dave Saltzman abandoned his father's property, Mr. Tomby whom all of his customers call Pancho decided that this might be the opportune moment to move his fledgling business.

Inside his new spacious quarters, Mr. Tomby can accommodate at least ten full size American cars. There, he and his other two full time mechanics are prepared to service the very demanding needs of his customers. The overflow of vehicles can be parked in the twenty spaces Mr. Tomby has acquired in an adjoining, well lighted, fenced in car park. Mr. Tomby also provides a towing service. Reservations for work are made by telephoning 287-8702. Regular business hours are 9-5, Monday through Friday.

The Portland Observer salutes Pancho Tomby on this new endeavor.

BLACKS MORE LIKELY TO HAVE WORK DISABILITY THAN WHITES OR HISPANICS, CENSUS BUREAU SAYS

Blacks were more likely than whites or hispanics to have had a work disability in 1988, according to a report by the Commerce Department's Census Bureau. Fourteen percent of Blacks aged 16 to 64 had a work disability in 1988, compared with about 8 percent for Whites and Hispanics. The proportions with a severe disability were 10 percent for Blacks, 6 percent for Hispanics, and 4 percent for Whites.

The report defines a disabled person as anyone with a disability that prevents the person from working or which limits the kind or amount of work he or she can do.

White and Black workers with disabilities were less likely to be covered by an employer-provided health plan than persons without a disability. About 45 percent of Black male workers with a disability were covered by an employer health plan compared with 61 percent of Black males with no work disability. This pattern, however, was not evident for Hispanics.
