Santa Brings A "Better Christmas to All"

Santa Claus is opening a temporary satellite office in Northeast Portland, and will staff it with local volunteers.

Claus said his goal in setting up the one-day workshop was to bring a "Better Christmas to All" by helping 20 needy families in Northeast Portland.

For the second year running, members of local neighborhood groups, Pacific Power, Pacific Development, Inc. and KBMS radio have been assigned by Claus to organize the temporary workshop scheduled for Saturday, Dec. 16, from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m. The public is encouraged to bring non-perishable foods to the site and join in the festivities.

In keeping with the Spirit of Christmas, there will be caroling, refreshments and free carousel rides for children.

Pacific Power will provide trees with stands and turkeys. Representatives from Northeast neighborhood groups will decorate the trees and deliver to needy homes.

Volunteer elves should report to Carousel Courtyard, 710 N.E. Holladay Street. For MAX riders, take the 7th Ave. Carousel stop.

Christmas Food Distribution Begins

About 2,500 families will pick up Christmas food baskets or vouchers from The Salvation Army at 1710 N.E. Sandy Blvd. starting Monday, December 18, at 9:00 p.m.

Nearly 1,000 children will receive toys. The Christmas Warehouse will stay open through Sunday, December 24.

People wishing to make credit card donations can call 238-GIVE.

Not enough food has been collected as of today. "We only have enough food for 300-400 baskets" says Major William Hunter of the Salvation Army.

People can drop off canned foods and frozen turkeys to 1710 N.E. Sandy Blvd., Portland.

Assistance to Small Business Offered

Has sagging sales and tight money got your business in a bind? The small business administration and the University of Portland are once again offering their popular Small Business Institute Program to existing small and medium sized businesses beginning January 2, 1990.

The SBI program offers free management assistance to businesses in the Portland/Vancouver metro area. Teams of 2-3 senior or graduate students in business administration study the business for a term and then present a written and oral report to the client at the end of the term. Clients would see students about 6-8 times per term, for 1 to 1-1/2 hours each time.

Student teams have tackled such diverse projects as marketing plans, recordkeeping systems, inventory control systems, business plans, budgets and market surveys. Sometimes a second term for follow-up is available.

Students do things for the business that the owner may have always wanted to do, but hasn't had the time or money to do. Findings are confidential. For more information on this free program, call Dr. Neil Higgins at the University of Portland at 283-7226.
