This session is co-sponsored by the PCC Small Business Development Center and the Small Business Administration.

PSU Offers Education Telecourse: Teachers Tackle Thinking

College credit will be available through a televised course offered through Portland State University's Division of Continuing Education this summer. The 3-credit class, Teachers Tackle Thinking, will air Saturdays at 8 a.m. on Oregon Public Broadcasting from June 9 to August 24.

The 12-week telecourse is offered for Education credit on a pass/no pass basis at graduate or undergraduate level. Course fee is $180 and textbooks are $25.

Content, learning, thinking skills and acquisition are the objectives in the series designed to challenge the balance point at which students learn how to think while having plenty to think about. The series was produced by the University of Wisconsin-Madison in 1988 and is valuable for both elementary and secondary teachers. Programs include developing effective thinking, classroom climate, deductive and inductive reasoning, and problem solving.

For registration and information about this course call in Portland 725-4670. Toll-free in Oregon 1-800-452-4909 ext. 4670. Toll-free outside Oregon 1-800-547-8887 ext. 4670. Advance registration is encouraged. Course requirements will be sent to students upon registration.

Tuition Scholarships For Graduate Students

Graduate-level students who are admitted to study this fall at Oregon's state-owned colleges and universities--including Portland State University--have a new opportunity to save on the cost of their instruction.

Yearly tuition scholarships of up to $2,328 for full-time graduate students--based on academic merit instead of financial need--are the result of funds made available to PSU and to other Oregon State System of Higher Education schools through the Oregon Merit Program.

"This is the first major tuition savings program made available for graduate students at Portland State," according to C. William Savery, interim vice provost for graduate studies and research. In addition, Savery emphasized that this program is also available to admitted graduate students studying parttime at PSU.

Further, one in four of the new tuition remissions at PSU is being made available to under-represented minorities on the basis of merit, according to Barbara Williams, assistant director in the university's Affirmative Action Office.

Deadline to apply is July 2. Applications and information may be obtained in PSU's Office of Graduate Studies, Room 303, Cramer Hall. Telephone (503) 3423.

A Proposal"

"In's And Out's Of Writing A Proposal" will be offered on Thursday, November 2 from 6:30-9:30 p.m. at the Oregon Association for Minority Entrepreneurs, located at 847 N.E. 19th, Portland.

This session deals with successful methods of writing a proposal.

"In's And Out's Of Writing A Proposal" is co-sponsored by the Small Business Development Center of Portland Community College, the Oregon Association for Minority Entrepreneurs and the Small Business Administration.

The cost of this session is $15. To register or for more information, contact the Small Business Development Center at 273-2828.

PORT OFFERS FREE SUMMER BUS TOUR

Free public bus tours of the Port of Portland are scheduled every Saturday, June 2, through August 25. During the three-hour, narrated tour, the public will see:

The largest floating dry dock on the United States West Coast--a major part of the West Coast's most modern ship repair yard.

One of the marine cargo terminals which handle more than $7 billion in trade each year and support local businesses. The Port is fifth in the U.S. in auto volume. In addition to containers, Portland led the nation in 1989 lumber exports.

One of the fastest growing airports on the West Coast--Portland International Airport, which handled more than 6 million passengers and nearly 135,000 tons of cargo in 1989. The airport has undergone expansion and remodeling this year, adding the new short-term parking garage, international facility, and the Oregon market.

The Port's three largest industrial parks where over 175 firms provide jobs for more than 16,000 people, and the site of the Port's new 458-acre Portland International Center airport business park. The free tours depart at 9:30 a.m. and at 1:00 p.m. from the parking lot behind the Lloyd 700 Building, 700 N.E. Multnomah, near Lloyd Center. Reservations must be made in advance by calling the Port's Public Affairs Department at 231-5000, extension 208. This tour is recommended for individuals or groups of up to six people and children nine years old and older.

The Port of Portland also offers other group tours of Portland International Airport or marine facilities. Call for details.
