

OLCC Rule Change For Service Permit Applicants, April 1

Beginning April 1, applicants for Oregon Liquor Control Commission service permits will have 90 days in which to complete the alcohol server education course required by state law.

"This amendment to the OLCC's server education rule represents a major change for bartenders, servers, managers and licensees who apply for the license that allows them to serve and sell alcoholic drinks," said Lee Coleman, director of OLCC Regulator Process.

"No extensions will be granted for applicants who have not completed the education requirement within 90 days," she said. "If the applicant does not successfully complete server education within the time period, the commission will deny the service permit application."

Coleman explained that before April 1 service permit applicants had only 45 days after signing the application to attend the alcohol Server Education course and pass a written test. "Although we have doubled the time limit for completing the course, we will not be granting extensions as we did in the past," she said. "Applicants may begin serving alcohol after completing the application and paying the $23 fee just as always," Coleman pointed out.

There are more than 87,000 servers, bartenders and liquor licensees who have OLCC service permits, which must be renewed every five years. In 1987, the Oregon Legislature mandated that service permit applicants complete an alcohol server education course and pass a written exam before receiving the OLCC license.

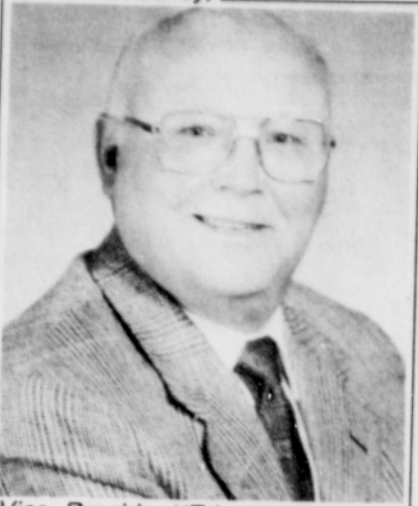

Coleman said more than 60,000 new and renewing service permittees have successfully completed the education course since the law was enacted. Server education courses are offered by 18 private providers in the state.

Do You Know Someone Whose Bills Are Larger Than Their Paycheck?

Jewell L. Bailey,

Vice President/Education

Marital problems, job loss, major illness or just over-enthusiastic spending sometimes result in having more bills than you can pay.

If you or someone you know is having trouble making ends meet, a visit to Consumer Credit Counseling Service (CCCS) may help avoid a lot of grief.

A community-sponsored, non-profit service with Pacific Northwest offices in Oregon, Washington, Idaho and

Alaska, CCCS helps people:
*Solve debt problems
*Avoid bankruptcy
*Learn to handle money
CCCS counselors help people develop lean but liveable budgets, often suggesting ways that people can start saving money.

Counseling received through CCCS is free if you handle your own payments. The service is funded by contributions from creditors, private companies and clients. Portland Teachers Credit Union helps support CCCS.

For people whose debts require continuing help, CCCS offers a Debt Management Program. In this program, CCCS works with clients and creditors to arrange reduced regular monthly payments and ensure that bills are paid on time. Clients are asked to pay a small monthly fee for this service - the average fee is $7.

If you're having trouble paying your bills, don't wait until your debts jeopardize your job, marriage or peace of mind. Call 232-8139 now for an appointment with a qualified CCCS counselor.

Louisiana Social Club First Annual Pre Easter Party

The Louisiana Social Club hosted a gala party for 45 to 50 youngsters on Saturday March 23rd at the Elks Lodge. The youngsters were entertained by a "Carter", a northwest disk jockey and of course the Easter Bunny (Charles Robertson) who gave them Easter baskets filled with candy and other Easter goodies, while they danced and played games. To top the party they had refreshments of hot dogs, potato chips, and soft drinks. The Louisiana Club is involved in many activities including their annual Juneteenth celebration.

Louise Water who is president looks forward to this as an annual event. (The Easter Party). All refreshments, entertainment and gifts were supplied by the Louisiana Social Club.

The youngsters came by word of mouth.

Irvington Historic Home Tour

The Irvington Community Association will hold its annual Tour of Historic Homes on Sunday, May 19, 1991. The self-guided home tour is held in conjunction with National Historic Preservation Week.

Tour tickets will be available starting April 15, 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday - Friday at Project Linkage, a program of Metropolitan Family Service, located at 2200 N.E. 24th Street, Portland, 97212. Mitsubishi agrees to refund consumers the other plaintiffs in a lawsuit alleging that Mitsubishi enlisted electronics retailers in a nationwide conspiracy to fix retail prices and eliminate discount prices on certain television, models.

The complaint and settlement agreement were filed today in U.S. District Court in Baltimore, Maryland. Mitsubishi did not admit any law violations in the settlement.

Television sets involved in the settlement are models CS1345, CS1945, CS2045, CS2013, CS2014, CS2054, CS2653, and CS2654. Oregonians who purchased one of the 242,654 units sold in the United States during calendar year 1988 are entitled to refunds.

Oregonians who filled out warranty cards for these televisions purchased during 1988 automatically qualify for refunds and will receive their refunds directly from the settlement administrator. Other consumers who can be identified from Mitsubishi sales records will be notified but must return claim forms establishing eligibility.

Other Oregon consumers wishing to file claims should call the Department of Justice Consumer Hotline, 378-4320 between 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. weekdays. Claim forms will be mailed as soon as the court approves the settlement. Claim information also will be published in newspapers throughout Oregon.

According to the states' complaint, Mitsubishi threatened to terminate dealers who sold certain Mitsubishi or MGA televisions at less than the manufacturer suggested retail price. This action would violate state and federal anti-trust laws.

Tony Dorsett Switches Helmets To Compete In The 1991 Toyota Pro/Celebrity Race

When Tony Dorsett battled in Super Bowl XII, he approached the challenge with the knowledge and experience that made him a champion. In April, he will be the "new kid on the track," racing against other rookie and professional drivers in this year's Toyota Pro/Celebrity Race.

Dorsett will join the field of 17 racers, including stars from television and the big screen, as they speed around the 1.67-mile course in downtown Long Beach, Saturday, April 13, 1991. Participants will earn approximately $2,000 per minute in the 10-lap event to benefit "Racing for Kids," a national program designed to raise funds for the Children's Hospitals in Los Angeles and Orange County, California.

"I've always had a special place in my heart for kids, and this race gives me a chance to give something back to them and the community," Dorsett explains. "And besides, I like being in the fast lane."

Dorsett grew up in Aliquippa, PA, where he attended the University of Pittsburgh and started his successful football career playing of the Panthers. He was named All-American four times and, in 1976, was named the Heisman Trophy winner.

Selected by the Dallas Cowboys in the first round of the 1977 draft, Dorsett assisted the team to its victory in Super Bowl XII and capped off the season earning rookie of the year honors. He was named Player of the Year in 1981 and, the following year, established an NFL record racing 99 yards from scrimmage for a touchdown, well on his way to capturing his first NFC rushing title.

Dorsett served as team captain in 1981, 1982 and 1984, and continues to be the Cowboys' all-time leading rusher, as well as the team's fourth all-time leading receiver.

In addition to Dorsett, other participants scheduled to make their debut in the 15th annual event include Craig T. Nelson (Coach), James B. Sikking (Doogie Howser, M.D.), Donny Osmond (singer), Marsha Mason (Broadway and film star), Bart Conner (Olympic gymnast), and more.

All entrants will pilot identically prepared Toyota Celica GT-S Lift-backs as they partake in the Toyota Pro/Celebrity Race, a prelude to the Toyota Grand Prix of Long Beach Indy car event the following day.
