

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held by the Tri-County Metropolitan Transportation District of Oregon (Tri-Met) at 3:30 P.M., Wednesday, July 31, 1991 at the Portland Building, 1120 S.W. 5th Avenue, Second Floor, Meeting Room C, for the purpose of considering a project for which federal assistance under Section 3 of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended, is being sought.

The project under consideration is the Westside Light Rail Extension project. The proposed light rail alignment to Beaverton is approximately 11.5 miles long, beginning at the present SW 11th Avenue terminus of the eastside light rail system in downtown Portland and terminating just west of SW 185th in Washington County. An alternatives analysis study for extension of westside light rail from SW 185th to Hillsboro is under development. The estimated project costs for the project from downtown Portland to SW 185th is $760 million.

Included in the grant request is funding for right of way acquisition, final design and construction management, construction (trackwork, tunnel, 12 stations, 5 park-and-rides lots, maintenance facility), electrification, signals, communications, 29 light rail vehicles, related equipment and improvements and project administration.

A detailed description of the alignment, with station and park-and-ride locations, is included in the draft grant application, as well as an itemized budget.

A discussion of displacement of persons, families and businesses is included in the draft Final Environmental Impact Statement for the project.

This project is in conformance with comprehensive land use and transportation planning in the area and is programmed in the region's Transportation Improvement Program.

A statement of Tri-Mets's charter bus service is available for inspection at the Tri-Met Administration offices.

Tri-Met will not be engaging in school bus operations.

Private transportation enterprise will not be directly affected by the project.

This project is currently under review by the state and district clearinghouses.

At the hearing, Tri-Met will afford opportunity for interested persons or agencies to be heard with respect to the social, economic and environmental aspects of the projects.

A copy of the draft grant application for the proposed project, a draft Final Environmental Impact Statement, and a transit development plan for the area are currently available for public inspection at the westside Corridor Project Office, 115 NW First Avenue, Suite 500, Portland Oregon, 97209. Contact the Westside Corridor Project Community Relations Department at 273-4352 for more information.

A person requesting an interpreter for the hearing impaired shall give Tri-Met at least 48 hours notice of the request by contacting Tri-Met at 238-4952 or TDD 238-5811, Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m..

Regulatory Review Committee Appointed

Commissioners Earl Blumenauer and Gretchen Kafoury announced the formation of a Regulatory Review Committee charged to help make improvements to the City's land division process in order to reduce costs to developers and home buyers and to improve City services.

The charge of the committee is to review existing City policies and practices governing subdivisions and Planned Unit Developments in the city and to recommend ways to make the process more efficient and less costly for both the developer and the City. The goal is to provide the best, most efficient service possible, thereby stabilizing or even reducing the cost of housing construction.

His Opinion

When Is It A Good Time To Get Married?

BY ULLYSES TUCKER JR.

June is the perfect time to talk about getting married. It seems that most women desire to be a June bride or a bride in general. At 35 years of age, childless, graduate school educated, single (never been married), and successful in the eyes (not in my own) of my peers/family, there's not a day that goes by without someone telling me that I need to settle down or get married. These individuals close to me consistently ask why not or when I plan to get married. My answer? Frankly, marriage has yet to become one of my strongest priorities and besides, one must at least have a candidate to enter this enlightened state. By the same token, you can't relocate to five cities in seven years and expect to cultivate meaningful relationships. Building my resume and healing from past pains ranked much higher than a commitment to another person. If you ask my grandmother about marriage and me, she'll tell you that I've missed the boat. I don't think so. It takes some humans longer to heal from old emotional and psychological wounds.

Now, the question each person must ask themselves is, when is it a good time to get married? That's if marriage is on the agenda. You know, according to those I spoke with, it's time to get married when you plan your future and can't see it without the other person in your life. You know it's time to get married when people refer to your mate as your "lovely wife" or "your husband" when you're not married. You also know it's time to get married when your friends recruit you as a babysitter or tell you how good you are with children or maybe even what a fantastic parent you would make. Why do some people get married? To cut expenses, tax exemptions, for money/lifestyle upgrade, multi-car discounts on auto insurance, wedding gifts, or to hush up the neighborhood gossip about the revolving door to your house, and finally, because your parents believe that you are living together in sin.

Marriage should be from the heart. The heart is the first to know that it's ready to get married, but the head, with all its judgments, logic, insecurities, and emotional baggage gets in the way. Marriage is an evolutionary process. It's imperative that humans chase their innermost dreams, sow their wild oats, purge themselves of decadent social habits, and learn economic responsibility before entering marriage, because it will only create problems down the line or later in the relationship. There is no substitute for maturity and believe me, it can only enhance marriage. Marriage should not be for the sake of marriage, or because you want kids, or because someone is pregnant for that matter. It should, marriage that is, happen because you feel spiritually connected to another person, not because of the way she fits her jeans or because of his nice house. Spirituality and love are very important.

Marriage removes the concept known to people as self. Originally you were one, but it combines the two reali-

"...WHAT IS MARRIAGE? The myth tells you what it is. It's the reunion of the separated duad. Originally you were one. You are now two in the world, but the recognition of the spiritual identity is what marriage is. It's different from a love affair. When people get married because they think it's a long love affair, they'll be divorced very soon, because all love affairs end in disappointment. But marriage is recognition of spiritual identity. If we live a proper life, if our minds are on the right qualities in regarding the person of the opposite sex, we will find our proper mate. But if, we are distracted by certain sensuous interests, we'll marry the wrong person."

John Campbell,
"Power of Myth"

ties or worlds. When you make the sacrifice in marriage, you are not compromising the character of your mate, it's for the unity of relationship. Your identity becomes the relationship, not you as an individual or your needs. Marriage is a consolidation of wills, energy, emotions, weaknesses, strengths, and passion. It's also sharing dreams and trusting someone with those feelings not privy to just anyone. Until that day, I guess that, I'll just tolerate those questions about when and if it, marriage, is going to happen. My heart will know...
