State and Emanuel Hospital Cooperate in Project for Fairview Residents

On Monday, October 7, at 10:00 a.m., an official ground breaking will be held in Northeast Portland for the Eliot Homes. Fifteen Fairview Training Center residents with intensive medical needs will live in three group homes. Speaking at the ground breaking will be Fairview parent, Betty Cumberland, who was involved in planning the project. Her daughter, Muriel, will be moving into the Eliot Homes next spring.

Among the features of the Eliot Homes:

- *The homes are specially equipped for residents with intensive medical needs. The homes are within two blocks of Emanuel Hospital and Medical Center so the residents will have immediate access to medical care if an emergency occurs.
- Emanuel physician, Doug Beers, will supervise the medical needs of the residents. Emanuel residents will assist him, receiving unique training in the medical needs of people with developmental disabilities. Emanuel and the Division are also working to develop a research project for the homes in cooperation with the University of Washington Medical School.

- *The homes were designed after receiving input from the Eliot Neighborhood Association by Stastny Burke Architects. The design is planned to be compatible with the older homes in the Eliot Neighborhood. Models of the homes will be available at the ground breaking.
- *The homes will be state operated with many employees who have transferred from Fairview Training Center. Four Fairview residents, who will move to the homes in March, will travel to the ground breaking. Speaking at the ground breaking will be Mrs. Cumberland will be:
