Retired For the Third Time

Robert J. Wood, at the age of 86, will retire for the third time October 19, 1991. He presently operates a laundrette at the corner of North Mississippi and Skidmore seven days a week. He does close briefly on Sundays to attend services at Mt. Olivet Baptist Church. Working has been Mr. Wood's life. After being turned down for medical school because he had six children, Robert Wood gave up his dream of being a doctor. He reared his children by working as a waiter on the Union Pacific Railroad, doing construction work, custodial work and working for the Water Bureau. Robert and his wife, Essie, owned a grocery store on the corner of N. Skidmore and Commercial for a number of years.

What's next? Robert Wood's daughter, Clarice Samples, has purchased the property where the laundrette stands, and plans to build six apartment units on the land. The apartments will be named the "Wood Towers." Essie, his wife of 56 years, is counting on getting to know her husband better now that he is "retired."

Friends and customers are invited to stop by and tell Mr. Wood "good-bye" before October 19, 1991.
