Math is my favorite subject. Math is fun, and can be very challenging. Math is my best subject. Math is used in most jobs, like computer technician which is what I'll be. In our grade at this school some kids that are very good at math are in a group that can go ahead in the math book, higher than everyone else. This group is fun, because you can move at a faster pace. Math will be used almost everywhere you go.

James Schumacher

My favorite subject is Creative Writing. It's my favorite, because I love to write stories. You can write anything that you want, but it must be able to go with the heading, and you can exaggerate in your story. Some of the stories are really fun to do.

My Favorite Subject Is...

Students from Trinity Lutheran Grade School

There are many amusing subjects in school but none as exciting as math. Math is the basis of every human's life. It helps you unlock the doors to the future. It can be used in almost everything you can think of. It can be used in many sports, almost every subject, and even learning how to tie your shoe. Where you get a job it will probably involve math. The only career that won't involve math is working at McDonalds.

Joshua Sprinkling

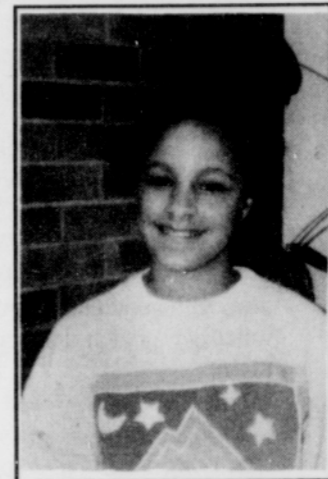

I like many subjects, but I think if I had to pick a favorite subject, it would be math. I like math because it's fun and exciting. It's one of the subjects that can give me some challenge. It teaches more new things than other subjects. I also think math is more useful than other subjects. It teaches things that can be used in many future careers. Also you need to know math even if you aren't going to have a career.

Roanna Gingrich

My favorite subject in school is Social Studies. It is my favorite subject because you can learn other nations' customs and beliefs. I also like Social Studies because you can learn about ancient history. I like learning about the explorers and their travels.

Todd Grunow

My favorite subject is art. I like art because art is a lot of fun if you put your mind to it, and if you are good at it. Art can be a lot of fun because there are so many different kinds of art. There is painting, drawing, sketching, but my favorite is drawing.

Chaka Washington

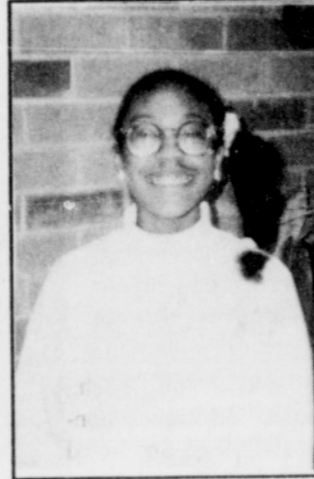

My favorite subject is art. Art is fun and relaxing and it shows talents in some people. It helps them to be creative but still serious about what they are doing. In some ways it seems like a recess since it's not quite like work. It's like T.V. but you're the one who is being creative and making the pictures. Art is a great subject.

Elissa McIntosh

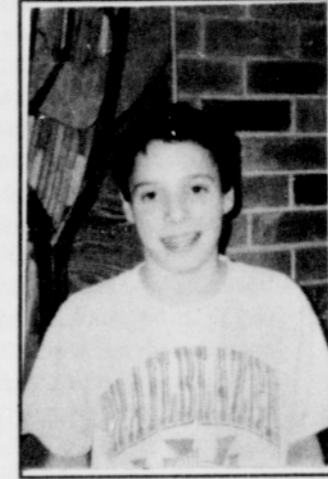

The reason I like math the most, is because I like to challenge with numbers. Math is challenging but I like to deal with challenges. When I grow up what I'm going to be has to do with math. Math have been my favorite subject ever since I began Pre-school!

Jynnefer Jack

Creative writing is my favorite subject. I like it because I like to write letters to my brother, and I like to write 3 or 4 page stories. I think schools should have more creative writing classes. We have it on Thursdays at 2:30. My mom said that I should write books when I grow up but I don't want to. I just plainly like to write.

Denae Marshall

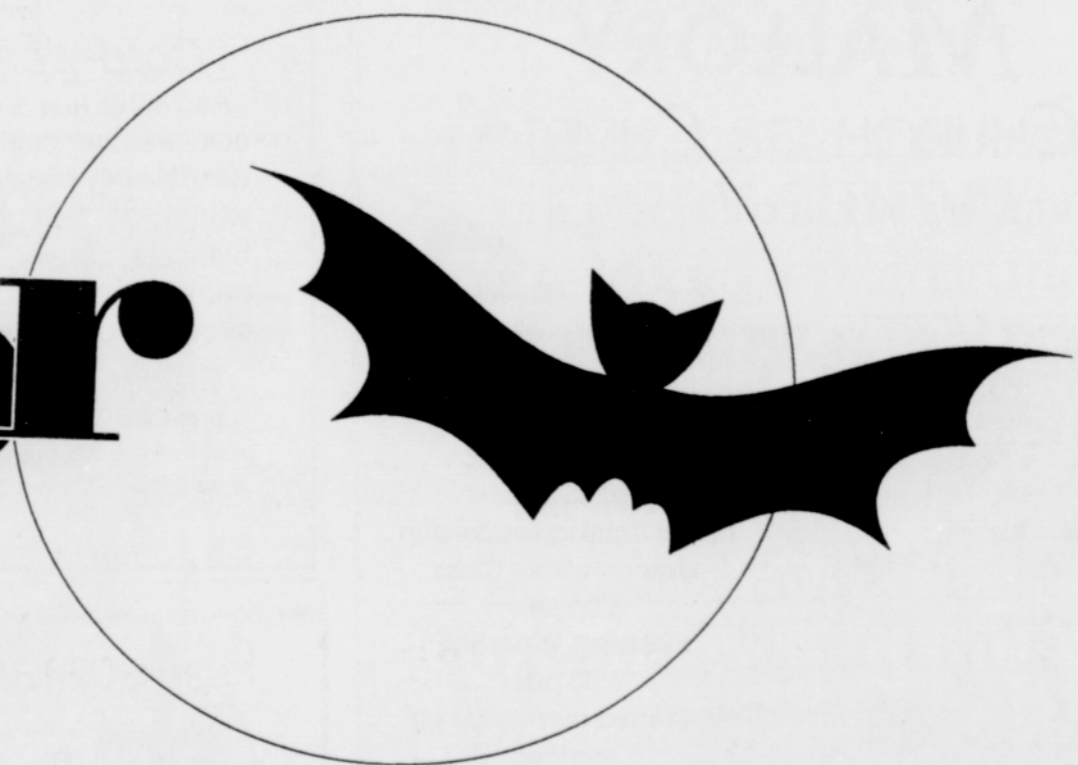

My favorite subject is math. I like math because it is a fun way to challenge your mind. I think math helps you enhance your thinking skills for other things. Math is also really fun! I think math is a very good thing to have in the business world. Math can be mind boggling sometimes and sometimes it's easy. Math is my best subject and I like it too.

Trick or Treat

TRICK OR TREAT - SAFETY FIRST!

What comes every year, thrills kids of all ages and worries parents and motorists? It's Halloween (October 31). Parents can minimize risk by making sure their trick-or-treating youngsters follow safety tips, says Jill Maire Perucca, staff writer and speakers' bureau coordinator for Western Insurance Information Service (WIIS).

Smart parents can assure a safe and fun Halloween by accompanying their children around the neighborhood. If your children are older and not guided by an adult, instruct them to visit only homes where they know they'll be welcome. "If the house is dark and uninviting, tell the kids to stay away," Perucca suggests.

Parents should warn children to stay on sidewalks and to cross streets carefully. It's also a good idea to put reflective tape on costumes and trick-or-treat bags and to arrange for youngsters to go out in groups rather than individually.

At home, leave your porch light on once it is dark. It will be a signal that you welcome trick-or-treaters and it also will help to brighten the neighborhood.

Perucca warns motorists to watch out for children. "Motorists need to remember that kids may be distracted by all the costumes and candy," Perucca urges motorists to drive slowly in residential areas and to honk their horns on dimly lit streets to let children know they're coming. Drivers also need to watch out for youngsters crossing against the light, darting from between parked cars and walking in the street, she adds.

Your insurance companies through WIIS offer trick-or-treaters the following safety tips:

WEAR A SAFE COSTUME:

- > Your costume should be easy to see, flame retardant and allow easy movement.
- > Wear shoes that will well and feel good - heavy boots, high heels and large clown feet could cause a fall.
- > Make sure that accessories such as large hats, wigs or beards do not impair vision.

SEE AND BE SEEN:

- > Reflective tape worn on both sides of your costume can help motorist see you in the dark streets.
- > Use make-up to paint faces instead of masks which can impair vision.

SUPERVISE YOUR TRICK-OR-TREATERS:

- > Have a parent or older sibling supervise kids on their treat route.
- > Always travel in groups, walk on sidewalks (never in the streets) and cross only at crosswalks.
- > Don't allow kids to eat any treats before they get home.
- > Check sidewalks, porches and steps. A stray toy or tool could trip a costumed child.

TREAT TIPS:

- > As kids collect treats, they may be tempted to sample some sweets before reaching home. To help curb their hunger and stop snacking, serve an early dinner.
- > Carefully check all goodies - throw away unwrapped or loosely wrapped items.
- > Wash fruit, cut it up into bite size pieces and look for anything that may have been added.
