Nicaraguans Meet Artists Of Color At 500 Years Of Resistance Mural Project

Five community leaders from Corinto, Nicaragua met with local artists that created "We Speak", a 13 panel 500 years of Resistance mural, on Thursday, October 29, 1992 at 3:30 p.m. at the Interstate Firehouse Cultural Center, 5340 N. Interstate Avenue.

The Nicaraguans are part of a contingent named Diriangen--in memory of a Nicaraguan leader that fought against the Spanish Conquistadors, organized by the Ben Linder Construction Brigade. The members include Nancy Gonzalez, a nurse and Head of the Federation of Health workers; Pedro Darce; Jose Luis Espinoza, former coordinator of Sandisista Youth; Maria Elena Argenal, Vice president of the Solidarity Council of Corinto and Miguel Medina, a law student.

"We Speak" is the product of the Communities of Resistance Art Project, a project of ALANA. In introducing the mural project Kyle Kajihiro, artist and ALANA spokesperson, stated, "We painted this mural as artists of color to educate people about the historical fraudulence of the Columbus myth, to reclaim a history of resistance to oppression, to tell the untold stories of our people and to project a positive vision for social change".

Asian Latino African & Native Americans for Justice and Peace, is a multi-racial interfaith organization dedicated to promoting peace and justice internationally, while education, organizing and mobilizing people of color in Portland to counter the effects of racism and militarism in our communities.

To Fight Crime In Your Neighborhood,
We Suggest
Building Bridges, Not Fences.

Nothing helps deter crime like a highly-visible, well-organized neighborhood patrol program. Nothing

Something is wrong when law-abiding citizens are the ones who feel like prisoners. Crime is on the rise almost everywhere. But it's clearly a problem that won't be remedied by stronger locks, taller fences or bigger, more ferocious watchdogs.

Now more than ever, citizens must work together with police and neighbors to take the offensive against crime. This means getting out of our recliners and getting involved. Like participating in a neighborhood patrol program, for instance.

Neighborhood patrols are a strong, safe deterrent to crime. Especially when linked to 9-1-1 and local law enforcement organizations via cellular telephone.

That's why Cellular One® is supporting community crime prevention efforts by Cellular One will donate 40 Motorola cellular phones for use by trained patrols. Call ONA for details.

donating 40 Motorola portable phones, to be made available to the neighborhood organizations that need them most.

Of course, you don't have to join a patrol to make a difference. If you own or use a cellular phone, use it to report suspicious activity or someone who needs help.

"Cellular Watch." Made possible through the cooperation of Cellular One, the Portland Police Bureau, the City of Portland's Office of Neighborhood Associations (ONA) and concerned citizens like you.

It will do more for your neighborhood's peace of mind than any ten-foot tall, electrified barbed-wire fence ever could.
