Victor Borge In Concert

Victor Borge

Victor Borge, the piano prince of comedy, performs his one-man show at Arlene Schnitzer Concert Hall at 8 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 12.

If you haven't seen Victor Borge for awhile, you're in for a wonderful treat: He's funnier than ever-if that's humanly possible. Borge always manages to please audiences and send them into the streets holding their sides while recounting his lovingly outlandish stories.

But Victor Borge is more than a keyboard comic. He is an acclaimed musician with the rare ability to laugh at the music he worships, at life and easily above all, at himself.

It's his unique gift-making fun and music-that has made him an international star with the same box office magnetism of rock and pop artists.

Borge has brought new audiences to the concert hall by making them feel comfortable with classical music. His strong following with the young has also won a new fans to the beauty of the music.

Comedy may well be Victor Borge's claim to fame, but he is an accomplished pianist, utilizing a keyboard talent that ably supports his antics. He has recorded an audio cassette called "The Two Sides of Victor Borge," one side for comedy, the other for serious piano interpretations.

Tickets are $18, $23 and $28.50, available at the PCPA box office, 1111 SW Broadway, and at G.I. Joe's Ticketmaster outlets. Prices include user fees and are subject to service charge. To charge tickets on VISA or Mastercard, call (503) 248-4496.

Lou Rawls Gets Early Jump On Holiday Post Office Rush

Grammy Award winner Lou Rawls, who hosts the annual "Lou Rawls Parade of Stars" telethon, beat this year's holiday crowd by mailing his greeting cards early. Rawls said the message he's sending to 3,000 of his closest friends is to encourage them to "watch the telethon on December 26, make a pledge and share the dream of a college education with young people across America." The telethon, now in its 13th year, benefits the United Negro College fund and its 41 member institutions.

VH-1 Honors Epic Recording Artist Sade As January Artist Of The Month

Videos From New Release, "Love Deluxe" To Be Aired In Heavy Rotation

VH-1 announces Epic Records recording artist Sade, Britain's "smoky, sultry soul queen", as VH-1 January Artist of The Month. This tribute is in support of her fourth release, "Love Deluxe", her first collection of new songs since "Stronger Than Pride", which included the dance hit "Paradise", was the first album that was produced and arranged entirely by Sade and her band. It was in 1988 that Sade first embarked upon a full-scale arena tour of North America.

According to Nielsen data released for the November 1992 cable network universes, VH-1 now reaches 50.2% of U.S. television households and can be seen in 46.7 million households. NOVEMBER 15
TEACHING RAPISTS TO DATE

A radical new Oregon program teaches sex offenders dating skills and sexual technique. Do we want public dollars spent to help rapists meet women? Or are better relationship skills exactly what sex offenders need to rehabilitate?

NOVEMBER 22
BIG FOOT or HARRY HOAX?

They say they saw it--do you believe them? WSU anthropologist Grover Krantz says that August's reported sighting of Big Foot near Lapwai, Idaho has a "50-50 chance" of being authentic. Krantz has spent more than 20 years studying the legendary beast. He and other believers take on the skeptics who say Big Foot is a big hoax.

NOVEMBER 29
THE POWER OF THE PEN

Newspaper columnists alternately entertain and enrage us. Do these writers wield too much power? Meet writers you love (or love to hate) including humorist Dave Barry and columnists Margie Boule, Jonathan Nicholas, and Steve Duin.
