

Public Stock Offering for Oregon Microbrewery

Willamette Valley Brewing Company announced that it is considering a Public Offering of Common Stock to raise an estimated $1.9 million to finance construction of a microbrewery in Portland.

"By seeking to go public, we hope to provide Oregonians and Washingtonians with the benefits of building and owning a microbrewery in this rapidly growing industry", said Jim Bernau, President of the company.

"By selling shares to the public, Willamette Valley Brewing Company intends to capitalize on the involvement and support of its shareholders", he said.

The offering price of the Common Stock is expected to be $1.20 per share with a minimum purchase of 400 shares or $480.

In making this announcement, officials of Willamette Valley Brewing Company explain no money or other consideration is being solicited and if sent to the company, it will be returned. "We want to hear from the beer enthusiasts who are interested in making a ground floor investment to start a new Oregon microbrewery", said company President, Jim Bernau.

Company officials are encouraging persons interested in learning more about the Brewery's Public Common Stock Offering to call 222-9771 or 1-800-472-2739 for more information.

Jim Bernau, the Company's president, is also founder of Willamette Valley Vineyards, which started four years ago with a Public Common Stock Offering. Since that time, the winery has grown to become one of the state's largest wineries.

Please note: An indication of interest in the Brewery involves no obligation or commitment of any kind. No stock sales will be made, commitment to purchase stock be accepted, until complete information on the Company is mailed to interested persons.

Portland's Terminal 6 Receives First Tyco Containers Shipment

Tyco's distribution center manager, Bob Russell, inspects one of the thousands of boxes of toys that were part of first direct-Portland shipment to the new Tyco facility Dec. 10, just in time for the holidays.

The first containers of toys across Portland docks arrived Dec. 10 for Tyco Toys' just-opened National Distribution Center in the Port of Portland's Rivergate Industrial District. News of the shipment, coming just in time for the holidays, was as if Santa Claus had singled out Portland this year for his gift-giving magic.

It was only last March that Providence, R.I.-based Gilbane Properties Inc. received Port of Portland Commission approval to purchase and develop 23 acres of the Port's rivergate property for its client, Mt. Laurel-based Tyco Toys Inc. Tyco, one of the nation's largest toy dealers and second largest toy importer, wanted the Portland location to consolidate all its U.S. distribution operations, including those of its Moorestown, N.J., distribution facility (which is now being closed).

Portland was a natural choice for Tyco; the city contains an ample amount of first-rate industrial property near a modern, deep-water seaport, and it is the home of Tyco's View-Master/Ideal Group subsidiary, best known for its popular 3-D viewers. What's more, Portland's transportation connections include three intercontinental railroads, hub facilities for every major trucking firm serving the West Coast, and superb east-west (Interstate 84) and north-south (Interstate 5) highways to move Tyco's cargo all over the country.

Tyco opened its new toy distribution facility Nov. 20. On Dec. 10, Tyco began receiving shipments directly through Portland, and more are on the way.

Company officials estimate that during 1993, Tyco container imports will number about 3,000 40-foot units. Exactly how much Tyco container volume will arrive across Portland docks won't be known until the end of 1993. However, all signs look good for Portland to significantly increase its volume of imports, thanks in large measure to Tyco's new National Distribution Center.

Stray And Abandoned Cat Problem In Tri-Counties Critical

Cold, wet and hungry they aimlessly wander the streets in metro-area communities by the hundreds. They're cats. Cats that have no homes, no one to feed them or let them in when winter weather strikes hard like it did yesterday. Each day the Oregon Humane Society takes calls from dozens of people who want to know what they can do.

The stray and feral cat problem in the area is becoming increasingly serious and it's the cold weather that makes people realize just how bad it is. Yesterday a cat seeking warmth and shelter had to be extricated from the fan belt of a car. And this cat was a family pet let outside for a brief period.

Sharon Harmon Operations Director at the Oregon Humane Society suggests that people thump on the hood of their car before starting the engine. Harmon also said that anti-freeze is particularly dangerous to pets. Its sweet taste attracts animals, but it is a deadly poison.

responsibility are two of the Society's major goals, Harmon said. "If we didn't have a serious cat overpopulation problem, people wouldn't look out their windows and see hungry cats waiting for a handout." The best way to solve the problem of stray and feral cats is for each person to realize that they are either contributing to the problem or they are helping to solve it. "Spaying or neutering the family feline is the critical element," she said.

The Oregon Humane Society will do everything possible to help people who find stray cats. "Individuals are welcome to bring strays to us, we'll do the best we can for the animal. Unfortunately, our biggest limitation is holding space," Harmon said. Anyone missing a cat should call the Society at 285-7722 ext. 200.

Multnomah County Animal Control provides a full range of animal protection services, said Director Mike Oswald. "People can always call on us to help with animal problems."

Silver Anniversary NAACP Image Awards Honors Michael Jackson Entertainer Of The Year

Legendary superstar Michael Jackson, recognized as the world's best-loved and most-celebrated performer, will receive the "25th Silver Anniversary Entertainer of the Year Award" at the 25th Annual NAACP Image Awards, it was announced today by Dr. William Gibson, chairman of the NAACP's national board of directors. Jackson will receive the honor at the awards ceremony, which will take place on Saturday, Jan. 16, 1993, at the Pasadena Civic Auditorium.

"His achievements in the entertainment world are legendary," said Gibson in making the announcement. "Michael has surpassed himself again and again, almost beyond belief. His consistent level of excellence is a stellar example of what the Image Awards are all about. We honor him for his great talent, and we heartily salute him for his their cats, the next best thing a cat owner can do is provide it with an ID tag so that if it becomes lost they can be reunited. The Oregon Humane Society provides free ID tags upon request. "Multnomah County also requires the licensing of cats," Oswald said.

While Multnomah County Animal Control can assist people with stray cat problems, Washington and Clackamas Counties do not provide services for cats. Harmon said that residents of those counties should contact their county commissioners and request services that will include cats.

The Humane Society reminds all pet owners that during cold weather animals who live largely outdoors require additional food, a dry sleeping area out of the wind and frequent checking to make sure that their water has not frozen. The Society is still seeking used dog houses for people who need shelter for their dogs. People who have dog houses to donate can drop them off at the Shelter located at 1067 NE Columbia Blvd. in Portland.

generosity to others as well," Gibson added.

Currently celebrating its Silver Anniversary, the NAACP Image Awards was created by the Beverly Hills/Hollywood branch of the NAACP to recognize and honor those individuals who have contributed to the positive portrayal of African-Americans. Criteria for selecting the prestigious Entertainer of the Year includes artistic excellence, community service and humanitarian efforts. Past recipients of the award have included Eddie Murphy, Oprah Winfrey, Whoopi Goldberg and Patti LaBelle.

The show will be broadcast nationally at 11:30 p.m. (10:30 Central) on Jan. 23, 1993, on NBC for the seventh consecutive year.
