Public Service Announcements For Teenagers To Be Aired

In an effort to reduce teen pregnancy in Oregon, three organizations have joined together. Oregon Health Division, Planned Parenthood of the Columbia/Willamette and Oregon SafeNet. They have produced two television and radio Public Service Announcements for teenagers to be aired in April 1993.

The cast of Teens & Company, Planned Parenthood's Theater, Group will be featured in the PSA's, giving candid responses to questions about taking responsibility for the consequences of sexual activity, decision-making, and how teens can prevent too-early parenthood.

The goal to reduce teen pregnancy is one of a group of "Urgent Benchmarks" as detailed in the 1993 report to the legislature from the Oregon Progress Board.

According to the Oregon Health Division, the 1991 pregnancy rate for teenagers was 19.3 per 1,000 females ages 10-17. Oregon's goal is to reduce the pregnancy rate to 8.0 by the year 2000. 8,233 girls between the ages of 10 and 19 were pregnant in 1991. We are working to prevent teen pregnancies.

Teens will be advised to call 1-800-SAFENET, the statewide health information and referral hotline for women, children and teens. Parents can receive a free booklet, to help them talk to their children about sexuality, by calling the SafeNet Hotline.

The Oregon Historical Society will sponsor an oral history workshop at the Oregon History Center on Saturday, April 10, 1993. Held twice yearly, the popular day-long workshop is designed for the general public, and services the entire spectrum of oral history interests and purposes.

According to OHS Oral Historian Dr. James Strassmaier, the semi-annual workshop was begun in response to widespread public interest in the techniques of initiating and conducting family history interviews. The program will be presented by Starrsmaier. Located in History Center's Madison Room, the morning session begins with registration at 10:00am. The afternoon session runs from 1:30pm to 3:30pm. There will be an opportunity for individual consultation immediately following the program.

Leadership Conference Scheduled

"Developing Community Leadership," a program focusing on leadership traits, skills and opportunities, will take place on Saturday, April 3, from 8am to 5pm in the Smith Memorial Center at Portland State University.

This conference features Portland City Commissioner Gretchen Kafoury, Police Chief Tom Potter, Ron Herndon of Albina Head Start, founding president of the Women's Foundation of Oregon Sharon Gary-Smith, and many other respected Oregon leaders.

Following a morning panel discussion with these leaders (moderated by Oregon State Representative Bev Stein), participants will meet in small groups with one leader to discuss leadership and their own leadership abilities. In the afternoon, participants will apply their skills in small community problem-solving sessions. The day will end with a reception where over 40 leadership training organizations will be available to advise participants about other community-based leadership training and volunteer opportunities.

This conference is the result of the work of the Portland Future Focus Leadership Action Committee.

Conference admission is $10 and includes a boxed lunch. For more information, contact Nancy Hedin, chair of the Leadership Action Committee and executive director of the City Club of Portland, at 228-7231.

Alcohol Tax May Surprise You

Most Oregonians are surprised to learn that the tax on beer is less than a penny ($.0084) a bottle or can--and that the tax has remained basically unchanged since 1975, the year that Bob Straub became governor.

That is why Oregon has the lowest price for a 6-pack of beer ($3.69) of the West Coast states. Only six states have lower beer taxes than Oregon, and most of those states also levy a sales tax.

In fact, I recently saw a 12-pack of Blitz-Weinhard on sale ($4.09) priced lower than a 12-pack of Coke ($4.39) or A & W Root Beer ($4.59), also on sale.

Governor Barbara Roberts is proposing to increase the tax by a nickel a drink on beer and wine (that is, by 5 cents on a 12-ounce can or bottle of beer).

The proposal would raise $75.7 million, which would play some of the costs of alcohol and other drug abuse. Specifically, it would support alcohol and drug prevention programs for children, treatment for people on waiting lists, more treatment for minorities, transitional housing for recovering alcoholics, assistance to children and adolescents admitted to Oregon State Hospital, and therapeutic nursery services for 200 pre-school children of mothers in residential alcohol and drug treatment programs. Corrections and Higher Education services would also benefit from some of the money.

An increased beer and wine tax shifts more of the costs of alcohol and drug abuse prevention, intervention and treatment form Oregon income taxpayers to users and abusers of alcohol. That would save taxpayers million sin extraordinary medical, social, law-enforcement and court costs.
