

4-Her's Receive Statewide Recognition

Kristin Kuntz

Jeannie Haney

Wendy Hein

Natalie Boardman

Tiffany Stahl

Victor Nelson

Seven youth in the Portland Metropolitan area have received statewide recognition for outstanding achievement in 4-H, the youth development program of the Oregon State University Extension Service, reports Linda Erickson, OSU Extension Agent.

They are Natalie Boardman, Wendy Hein, Kristin Kuntz and Tiffany Stahl of Portland; Jeannie Haney of Estacada; Victor Nelson of Lake Oswego; and Kim Herinckx of Hillsboro. They are nominees for trips to the 1993 National 4-H Youth Congress in Chicago next fall.

Boardman, daughter of Curt and Anita Boardman of Southwest Portland, is Oregon's nominee for the trip sponsored by Guide Dogs for the Blind of San Rafael. The sponsor of the 4-H guide dog-puppy programs awards one trip to 4-H members in nine Western states.

Boardman, who will be a senior at Wilson High School, has raised two guide dog puppies. She has met the owner of the first guide dog she raised and returned to Guide Dogs of the Blind for final training.

A 4-H member for eight years, she has also had projects in clothing, photography, and food preservation, among others.

She is a teen leader of a 4-H dog and small animal club and serves on the Metro 4-H child development and recognition committees. In addition to 4-H, she volunteers at the Washington Park Zoo and is active in Explorer Scouts. In school, she volunteers at the Washington Park Zoo and is active in Explorer Scouts. In school, she volunteers in special education programs, has been a counselor at Outdoor School, runs track and is a member of the yearbook staff.

Hein, daughter of Randall and Mary Hein of Southeast Portland, is the state nominee for one of 37 trips sponsored by Amoco Foundation for achievement in the energy management program.

Hein, a 1993 graduate of Cleveland High School, plans to study engineering at OSU. A 4-H member for six years, her projects have included horse, clothing and foods. As part of her energy management program, she learned how to perform routine maintenance on the family's two cars and kept a record of their fuel efficiency.

She has been a junior leader and teen leader of her own 4-H home economics club. In school, as an honor student she was active in student government, music and the Big Sister/Little Sister program.

Kuntz, daughter of Gary and Kelly Kuntz, is the nominee for a trip sponsored by Bridgestone/Firestone Trust Fund for her overall achievement in leadership. The 1993 graduate of Sunset High School plans to attend the University of Puget Sound in the fall. Kuntz, a 4-H member for seven years, is also a teen leader and a junior leader.

She has been a county fair junior superintendent and also a youth representative to the executive committee of the county 4-H leaders association. In 4-H, she has concentrated on the dog care and obedience project. In addition to her 4-H activities, Kuntz has been a volunteer at the Washington Park Zoo and is on the staff of ZooCamp as a counselor and a member of Explorer Scouts.

Stahl, daughter of Alan and Janice Stahl of Northeast Portland, is the nominee for one of 20 trips sponsored by Dow Brands, Inc., in the area of food conservation, preservation and safety.

Stahl has had a wide variety of projects during her four years in 4-H, including food preservation, clothing, knitting, horticulture and expressive arts. In food preservation, she has canned, frozen and dried a variety of foods. She is also a 4-H junior leader. A junior at Bayith Academy, she is an honor student and member of the drill team.

Haney, Daughter of Joseph and JoAnne Haney, is Oregon's nominee for one of 45 trips sponsored by Eastman Kodak Co. for achievement in the 4-H photography project. She has been in 4-H for eight years.

Haney, who will be a senior at Gladstone High School, has taken more than 1,100 pictures while in photography. She has also learned her way around a darkroom and experimented with various kinds of prints. She has also had projects in such areas as foods, fiber arts, home environment, swine and clothing.

The current Miss 4-H, she is a co-leader of the county's 4-H Ambassador team. She counts work on her school's literary magazine and membership in the art club among her other activities.

Nelson, son of Victor and Bette Nelson, is the nominee for one of 50 trips sponsored by Fleishmann's Yeast Co. for working with breads in the 4-H foods and nutrition project. Nelson, an eight-year 4-H member, will be a senior at Lake Oswego High School. He has used his knowledge about breadmaking to prepare special foods for church events, Extension meetings, and other activities. He has also taught both youth and adults about baking.

Nelson serves on the Metro 4-H

Ambassador leadership team and as teen representative to the county Extension Advisory Council. He counts band among his school activities. He is also active in Boy Scouts.

Herinckx, daughter of Frank and Vicki Herinckx, is the Oregon nominee for one of eight trips sponsored by Syntex Animal Health, Inc., for achievement in the 4-H beef project. A 4-H member for seven years, she will be a junior at Glencoe high school.

Herinckx traces her interest in beef cattle to her grandparents, who started a beef ranch near Hillsboro that they still operate. She started her 4-H project with one animal and now has a small herd. She is an active member of the Oregon Junior Polled Hereford Association. In addition to her beef project, Herinckx has had projects in such areas as foods, clothing and veterinary science. She is a junior leader and a teen leader of her own 4-H club.

The nominations were announced at the conclusion of the 1993 Oregon 4-H Ambassador program at Linfield College. The nominations are based on overall 4-H records and personal interviews.

Janice Wilson To Lead Oregon State Board Of Higher Education

Janice Wilson of Portland has been named President of the Oregon State Board of Higher Education for 1993-94. Rob Miller of Salem will serve as Board Vice President, and Leslie M. Swanson, Jr., of Portland was elected Vice President for Planning.

Wilson, a member of the Board since 1988, is Area President at First Interstate Bank of Oregon. She served as Board Vice President in 1992-93, chaired the Board's Committee on Finance and Administration, and serves on the Board's Administrative Review Committee. She was, for two years, Executive Director for the city of Portland's Bureau of Human Resources and chaired both the State Job Training Coordinating Council and the Wage and Hour Commission. Wilson is a graduate of Portland State University with a degree in history, and of the University of Washington Pacific Coast Banking School, and the bank executive program at Fuqua School of Business, Duke University.

Wilson replaces 1992-93 Board President Bob Bailey, who will remain on the Board.

Miller was appointed to the Board in 1988 and re-appointed in 1992. He has served as chair of the Board's Administrative Review Committee and as a member of the Board's Executive Committee and the Committee on Finance and Administration. He is also Board representative to the Center for Applied Agricultural Research. Miller owns Mt. Jefferson Farms, is past vice-chair of the Oregon Economic Development Commission, and is a member of the Governor's Science Council. He has worked with many trade and commodity organizations and is former president of the Oregon Essential Oil Growers League as well as former secretary-treasurer of the Oregon Mint Commission. Miller holds a degree in history from the University of Oregon.

Swanson was appointed to the Board in 1989. He is chair of the Board's Committee on Academic Affairs and the Board's Committee on academic Productivity. He recently developed a proposal for a long-range plan for OSSHE. A Portland-based attorney, Swanson has served on the Oregon Arts Commission as state chair of the Oregon Civil Liberties Union, and as president of the Lane County Bar Association. He has been an elected member of the American Law Institute since 1984. Swanson received his bachelor's degree from Augusta College in Illinois, his master's in philosophy from Claremont Graduate School in California, and his law degree from the University of Oregon School of Law.

The Oregon State Board of Higher Education, an 11-member board composed of nine citizens appointed to four-year terms and two student members appointed to two-year terms, sets Oregon State System of Higher Education (OSSHE) policies and procedures, approves new programs, and oversees OSSHE's annual budgets.

Caring Hearts Picnic

Children with congenital heart disorders and their parents celebrated summer with a picnic

Children with congenital heart disorders and their parents celebrated summer with a picnic at Oaks Amusement Park, Sunday, July 11th.

This annual event was open to the public. There was no charge, however, each family was asked to bring a pot luck dish to share.

Picnic organizers served barbecue chicken, french bread and soda pop. Ride bracelets offered unlimited access to the amusement rides for certain hours.

Caring Hearts is an informational and support group for parents of children with congenital heart disorders. It is supported by Emanuel Children's Hospital and Legacy Heart Services and open to patients from all area hospitals.

Legacy Health System includes Emanuel Hospital & Health Center, Good Samaritan Hospital & Medical Center, Holladay Park Medical Center, Meridian Park Hospital, Mount Hood Medical Center, Legacy Visiting Nurse Association, CareMark/Managed HealthCare Northwest PPO.
