

Miss Black Oregon USA Pageant

Meilco Brown

Miss Black Oregon USA and her court

Joyce Washington, Publisher for The Portland Observer

Latreese Smith, 2nd Runner -Up

Sylvia Jackson

Miss Black Oregon USA, & Miss Black National USA

Michelle Soles Miss Black Oregon USA

Tanisha King

Cassandra Nolen, 1st Runner -Up

Clarence Parker

Judges(L to R): Arnold Pitre, Phylis Gaines, Sharon Nickleberry, Harvey Lockett, Art Oliver

Directors of the Pageant (L to R): Derek Rasheed, Tony Washington, Noah Jackson

Abdul Hall sang the Black National Anthem

Ken Boddie, Channel Six News

Eugene of "Movable Feasts"

The Golden Eagles

The Golden Eagle were organized in 1953 in Birmingham, Alabama by several young men who had the dream of Dr. Martin Luther King that one day they would become great singers and also make it to the mountain top.

The Golden Eagles were born in the State of Alabama. There they were taught to accept and respect God and his word.

The love that the Eagles had for each other inspired them to combine their voices together for the enjoyment of many people around the world.

In 1967 The Golden Eagles won the Highest Award for Gospel Singing in the State of Alabama and also went on to start their recording success the same year with the release of their first album entitled "I Ain't No Stranger Now" and "Nobody Knows The Troubles I See." These two songs led to the massive response from across the nation.

This gave The Golden Eagles the incentive to keep writing, arranging and recording.

The Golden Eagles latest recording was October 10th, 1993 entitled "Who Do You Think Woke You Up This Morning? Nobody But Jesus!" by Henry Shambry and "Sin Is The

The Golden Eagles

Blame For It All" by Aaron Randolph. With God in our hearts, love in our minds, support and encouragement from family, friends, fans and most of all God's blessings, The Golden Eagles do indeed know who woke us up this morning.

The Golden Eagles will be appearing at Gregory High School, Located at 7334 N.E. Siskiyou on February 11, 1994 at 1:30 PM.

Sponsored by Young Audiences