FUJITSU CLASSIC 8K BENEFITS PAL: VOLUNTEERS AND RACERS NEEDED

Sunday, September 18, the Gresham Manufacturing Division of Fujitsu Microelectronics, Inc. and many of its suppliers have joined forces to present the Fifth Annual Fujitsu Classic 8K. The running events, which include 8K Individual and Team competition, a four-mile Family Walk and an 1/2 mile Kids' Run, will take place on the Fujitsu Campus, 21015 S. E. Stark Street.

All proceeds will benefit the Police Activities League (PAL), a juvenile crime prevention program fostering mutual respect between kids, cops and the community.

The course winds through an evergreen forest, past two lakes, over a bubbling brook, and has a few moderate inclines. Following the race, a family picnic will offer free food and beverages. Japanese entertainers will perform throughout the event.

Registration in person began Monday, September 5, at: Athletic Department (Beaverton Mall), Athletics East/Meadowlark, Finish Line

Sports, Nike Town, Pace Setter Athletic, Pace Setter West, all Portland-Vancouver G.I. Joe's Ticketmaster locations, and Sportmart. Cost: $6 per adult, or $8 on event day; $3 per child, 10 and under.

"This is an event everyone can enjoy and the money will go to a good cause," said Contesa A. Diaz, PAL VISTA Volunteer.

For more information on the Fujitsu Classic 8K, contact Hamilton Events, 203-9166. To volunteer, contact PAL, 823-0250.

OREGON BIG THREE FOOTBALL PROGRAMS MIXED BAG

BY DANNY BELL
 For Oregon's biggest three schools winning two out three ain't bad, this past weekend.

The good news first. After suffering a crushing defeat a week before at the hands of the University of Oregon, Portland State turned in an impressive win over Angelo State of Texas, in a 35-10 victory. Derrick Holmes rushed for a school record 281 and passed for an additional 354, finishing with total of 620 yards offense.

P.S.U performance was marred however with 16 penalties. Coach Walsh commented that all the penalties were correctable. This is the same habit that plagued P.S.U. last week at Oregon.

Now for the bad news. The Ducks must still had the "feel goods" after squashing Division II P.S.U. the previous week in their home opener at Autzen Stadium. However Saturday they got a rude awakening by Hawaii. Oregon committed 5 turnovers, including one interception returned for a touchdown.

On top of that Oregon incurred 16 penalties for 110 yards. Obviously this was not a way to win the game. Hawaii seems to have Oregon's number defeating them 41-17 in 1988, 24-21 in 1992 and 36-18 Saturday.

Wyoming had just beat University of Texas at El Paso a week earlier, and was expected to be a tough competitor for Oregon State's wish-bone offense.

Through out the first half it was a toe to toe knock down drag out contest with the score ending the first half at 21-21.

However Oregon gradually seized the upper hand with crucial fourth down play by quarterback Rahim Mahammed who ran for the first down. That play proved to be the turning point of the game, O.S.U. went on to score. Wyoming was then forced into an air attack, which turned against them when Reggie Tongue intercepted the ball and returned it for a touchdown putting the game out of reach.

Consumers Demanding More Electricity

Electric vehicles like this General Motors Impact are one reason why electricity will be more in demand in the future. These cars will help to keep our environment cleaner.

If your home is like most, you'll be using more electricity and less of other types of energy in the years ahead. The primary benefits to you will be greater control over your energy bill and a cleaner environment, according to the Edison Electric Institute, and the National Rural Electric Cooperative Association, two national associations of electric utilities.

The reasons for electricity's growing use:

- The fuels used to generate electricity are abundant and domestically available.
- The growing use of convenience appliances, all of which use electricity.
- New electric appliances offer increasingly higher levels of energy efficiency.

The last reason is key. As electric appliances become more energy efficient, consumers realize benefits besides lower energy bills. These include greater comfort and convenience in the home, and greater economic competitiveness and a higher standard of living in our economy.

Electricity, however, is becoming more important for yet another reason. Replacing older electric technologies with new, high-efficiency models can help us protect the environment. In many instances, even replacing technologies that burn oil or natural gas with high-efficiency electric alternatives can help protect our environment. The reason: These new electric technologies are so much more energy efficient. Using more electricity in these instances can mean an overall reduction in pollution, even when you factor in the emissions that result from generating that electricity.

Electric Utility's Role

One organization that can help you use electricity more efficiently is your electric utility. They want to help you because promoting the efficient use of electricity benefits all utility customers in two important ways. It helps utilities to defer the need for new power plants. This will help keep the price of electricity down. It will also keep the environment cleaner for everyone.

For more information about electricity and electric energy efficiency, call your electric utility's residential marketing department.
