Aristide Gives Sermon In Philadelphia Church

Haitian President, The Rev. Jean-Bertrand Aristide, addressed an enthusiastic crowd of supporters and well wishers at Bright Hope Baptist Church last week at the invitation of Senior Pastor William H. Gray III, special advisor to President Clinton on Haiti and a former Congressman.

In a rare public appearance, Aristide commended Gray for a pivotal role he played in the restoration of democracy in Haiti by the U.S. government.

In the spirit of brotherly love, Father Aristide's praise for Gray was overwhelming.

"With the persistence of a Baptist Minister you were steadfast in your conviction. We thank you for your dedication, we thank you for the sense of respect which you always showed in our relationship. On behalf of my nation, I thank you dear brother."

Aristide acknowledged the large Haitian community living in Philadelphia and asked that those in the church stand and show Gray and the American people their special thanks. They did so by chanting praise in their native language of French.

"Rev. Gray you are a resourceful facilitator, a skilled negotiator and a brilliant man. You are more than a Baptist Minister," Aristide said. He also gave praise and gratitude to President Clinton.

The thrust of Aristide's sermon referred to the peaceful restoration and celebration of a new beginning in Haiti, a new hope for God's respect, democracy, justice and liberty for the Haitian people.

He extended an invitation to all Americans to come and visit Haiti, and in an unexpected surprise said, "Rev. Gray, you deserve the medal of honor, which we will give to you in Haiti."

In Memory Of Emma Jean Williams

Born May 15, 1928 (Paris, Texas); Died October 11, 1994; Portland, Oregon

Emma Jean Williams was born in to Mr. and Mrs. Mack Dawson. She was a person who loved life and enjoyed it all she could. For Emma Jean, family always came first.

Emma Jean was an enthusiastic member of the Delta Mothers, a support organization of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. She particularly enjoyed participating in the group's various activities and cherished the many friendships she developed over the years. Emma Jean also enjoyed visiting her children and other relatives, when she got the opportunity. Emma Jean's philosophy was, "Nothing beats failure but a try." This strong belief was instilled in her children and grandchildren throughout their lives.

If you could gather all the respect and love that people feel for Emma Jean, it wouldn't equal the amount of pride Emma Jean had in her family. Her spirit is here with us now - leaving us these thoughts and feelings:

"Don't forget me. Hold on to my memory, but let go of the sadness. Enjoy life. Work hard and earn your keep. Find peace and harmony inside of you and share it with those you love.

Services were held at Killingsworth Little Chapel of the Chimes, Portland, Oregon on October 14, 1994. Interment, Wilamette Cemetery, Portland, Oregon.
