Princeton Capital Opens Portland Office

Princeton Capital Finance Co., a commercial finance firm providing innovative, asset-backed loans to small businesses experiencing difficulty obtaining traditional financing, has opened an office in Portland.

"We bring large institutional finance and business-management service to small businesses," says president Gary V. Hoyer, who established the company with G. Mark Loreto in 1988.

The company today finances more than $400 million in loans and plans to reach $1 billion in 1996.

Princeton Capital specializes in supporting minority- and women-owned businesses performing on contracts with federal, state and local governments and large corporations. Federal contracts alone with these businesses total an estimated $10 billion.

The company also offers revolving lines of credit secured by receivables and inventory to help businesses hire employees, acquire equipment and materials, and fund research and development needed to complete the contracts and build new business.

"We deliver unsurpassed service and more flexible financing than most banks at competitive rates and understand the importance of financial continuity to the growth of small businesses," Hoyer says.

Besides its headquarters in Princeton, N.J., the company has offices in Washington, D.C., Houston, Dallas, New Orleans and Phoenix.

The new local office is at One World Trade Center, 121 SW Salmon, Suite 1100, Portland, OR 97204. Telephone numbers are (800) 865-4103 and (503) 295-2292; the fax number is (503) 295-2587.

The Omega Boys & Girls Club (OBGC) is a non-profit organization sponsored by The Coalition Of Black Men a community oriented organization in Portland, Oregon. The OBGC gives to African-American youth a positive alternative to street and gang activity, thus decreasing the risk of anti-social behavior. Members are exposed to the history, contributions, values and ethics intrinsic to the African-American community, not just nation wide, but the world over. The men of the Coalition and women in the community serve as role models and mentors to the members of the OBGC, teaching of basic survival skills, responsibilities to family and community involvement are a priority. Issues such as the principle rites of passage involved in becoming a man or woman, spirituality, pride, self esteem, respect for themselves and others, are reinforced in a positive manner.

One of the ways the club raises funds to support workshops and field trips that are an important part of their program is through its annual golf tournament and dinner.

The James Boozer Memorial Golf Tournament in honor of the late James Boozer a man who was highly regarded in the community for his dedication, contributions, and the compassion and concern he showed for the young people of Portland.

(NU) - In the past, I've told you about ways to protect the physical beauty of your car. I've included tips on selecting a repair shop, information about body work, items to include in a road assistance kit and products to protect the interior against dirt and stains.

The folks at 3M, who offer some of the leading retail car care products, including the spray can auto version of Scotchgard cleaners and protectors, have asked me to share a few tips that will help protect you and your family when driving.

- Don't drive a rental car until you know how the locks work.
- Take a fender-bender to protect yourself in the event of a deliberate "accident."
- Don't stop if the driver in the car behind you flashes the headlights.

Simple Steps to Keep You Safe in Your Car

Emergency and law-enforcement vehicles have flashing red or blue lights and sirens.

• If you are followed, head for the nearest police station, fire station or open business. Don't head home or park in a deserted area.

• Maintain a half tank of gas at all times.

• Know your destination. Choose well-traveled and illuminated routes.

• If your car breaks down at night, turn on your emergency flashers and stay in the car. If someone stops to help, ask them to summon police or a tow truck.

• At stoplights, leave the car in gear. If someone approaches you, be ready to honk the horn.

• As you approach your car, carry keys with the ends protruding through your fingers, to use in defense if necessary.

One more thought about Scotchgard products: Ozone-depleting chemicals have been removed from a new water-based formula without affecting protection qualities.
