Albina Corner Project Off The Ground

Albina Corner Project is a new addition to several projects which are being designed to uplift the Social-Economic Structure of the N/NE Community (sketch shown to right).

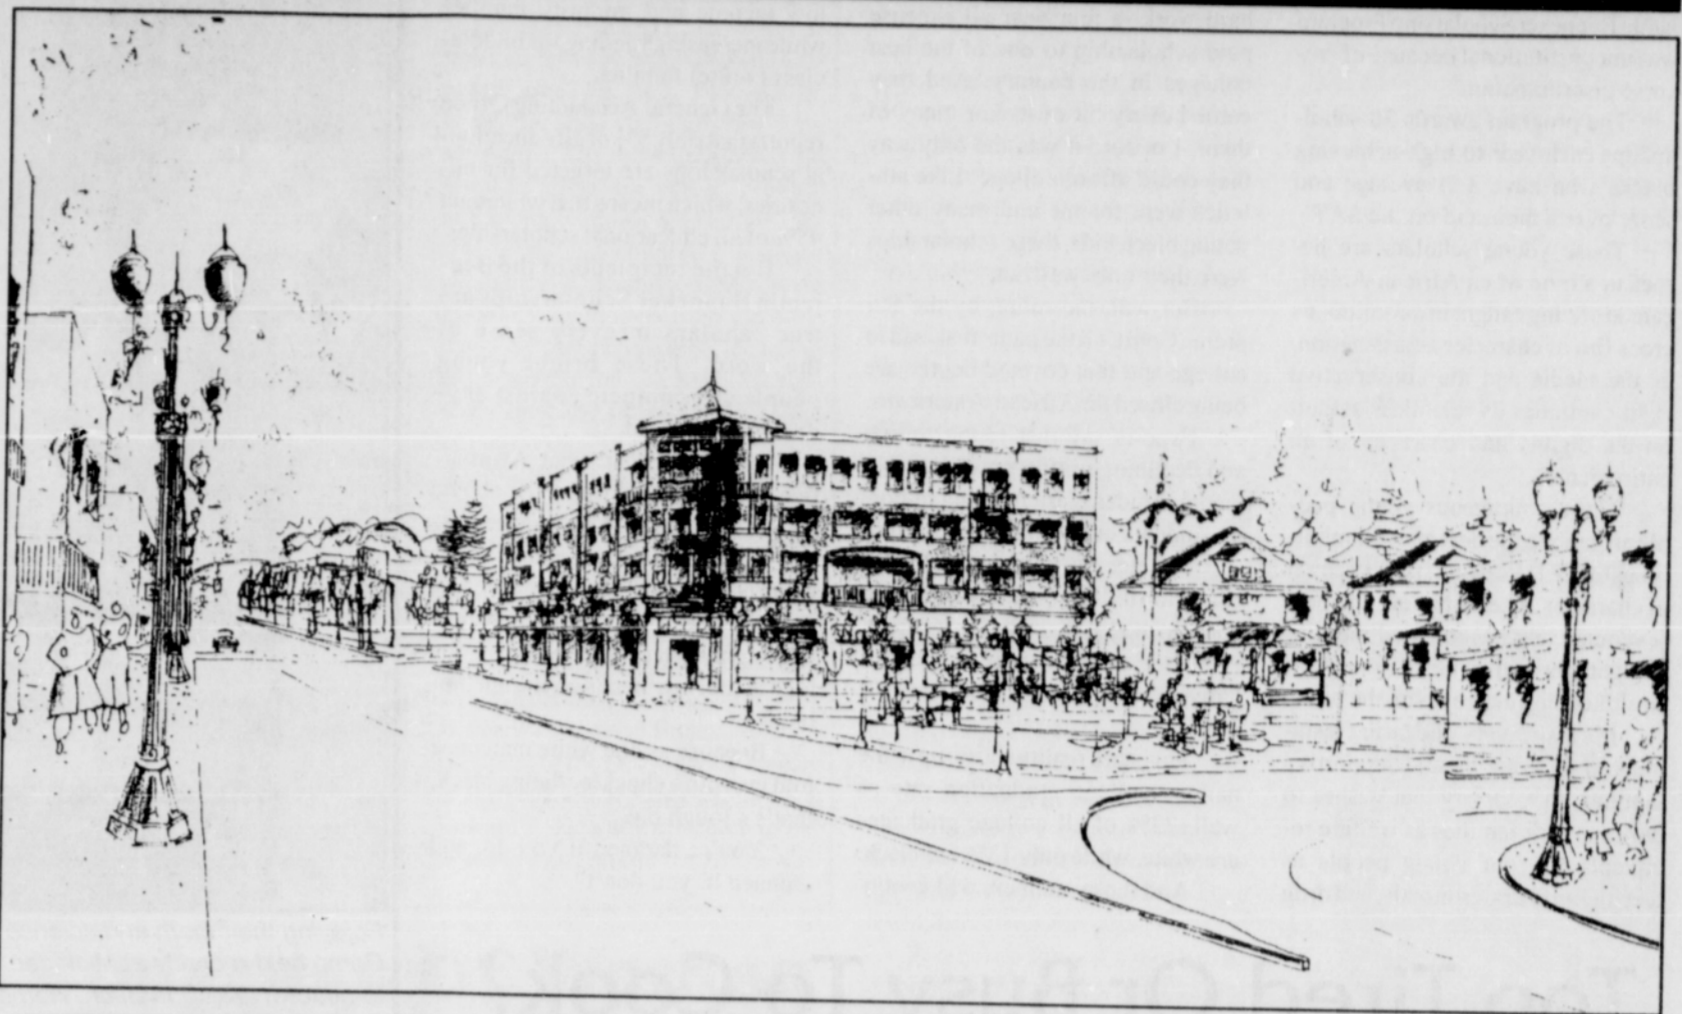

The project will consist of forty-eight (48) residential units and approximately 12,000 square feet of commercial space are being developed. It also includes 30 one bedroom, 17 two bedroom and 1 three bedroom units.

The new building will include a preschool/childcare, the new Albina Community Bank, non-profit housing agencies and a cafe.

It is expected to house single parents and low-income people.

The project was developed with extensive neighborhood and neighborhood business involvement and has the endorsement of the Eliot Neighborhood Association.

Portland Community Design has committed to sharing ownership of the project with other community based organization so that the project will help generate community wealth.

In Appreciation

In appreciation, and to express my thanks for your support and contributions and to give me the honor of being the 1995 Northwest States Assn. Queen.

Your support is being used to provide scholarships and help the seniors in need.

Please share and enjoy an evening with me, Saturday, July 22 at the Billy Webb Elks Lodge #1050, 6 North Tillamook.

Thank You,
Jennifer Dishman

Plan Ahead For Savings And Comfort

Like the fabled ant which readied itself for winter while his companions played, planning ahead for the cold and wet season, even in the middle of summer, can have big pay-offs.

The Community Energy project in Portland offers free weatherization for seniors and disabled citizens on low incomes. Trained volunteers install energy-saving materials such as vinyl storm windows, weatherstripping for doors, caulk, water heater blankets and water pipe wraps. All labor and materials are free.

"We get flooded with requests in the fall," says Maggie Lang, project coordinator, "and we simply can't get all the homes weatherized before the cold season hits. So summer is a good time for people to give us a call. We have lots of volunteers right now."

Plugging up the air leaks that make a home cold and drafty will translate into greater comfort and lower heating bills next winter when the cold weather arrives.

Qualifying persons must be seniors or disabled on low incomes (annual household income may not exceed 50 percent of the median income in the Portland area). Homeowners and renters of houses, apartments and mobile homes are eligible.

Community Energy Project will be happy to answer questions and schedule an energy audit. Call 284-6827 to speak to one of the staff or to leave a message.

Bradley To Interview Prospective Students

Representatives from the Admission Office of Bradley University in Peoria, Illinois will be in the area to interview high school juniors interested in attending Bradley in Fall 1996.

Interviews will be held in Portland from 1 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, July 26 at the Portland Residence Inn, 1710 N.E. Multnomah.

Students will receive information about admissions, financial assistance, scholarships and Bradley's nationally recognized Residence Halls of the Future program.

BANKING ON AMERICA®

GET $500 OFF CLOSING COSTS ON A HOME LOAN.

PLUS $1000 IN SAVINGS FOR HOME ESSENTIALS.

Americans have always been good at coming up with reasons to buy things. But Bank of America wants to give you one more reason by offering home loans that come with $500 discounts on closing costs and a BankAmericard® Visa® Card with no annual fee. That way you can buy the table that seats twelve and the chairs that go with it, for the big house-warming party.

Plus, you can get savings of over $1,000 from major manufacturers such as Frigidaire, Sherwin Williams Paints and more. We'll even get you discounts from ADT Security Systems to protect your new home, and Allied Van Lines to move your belongings.

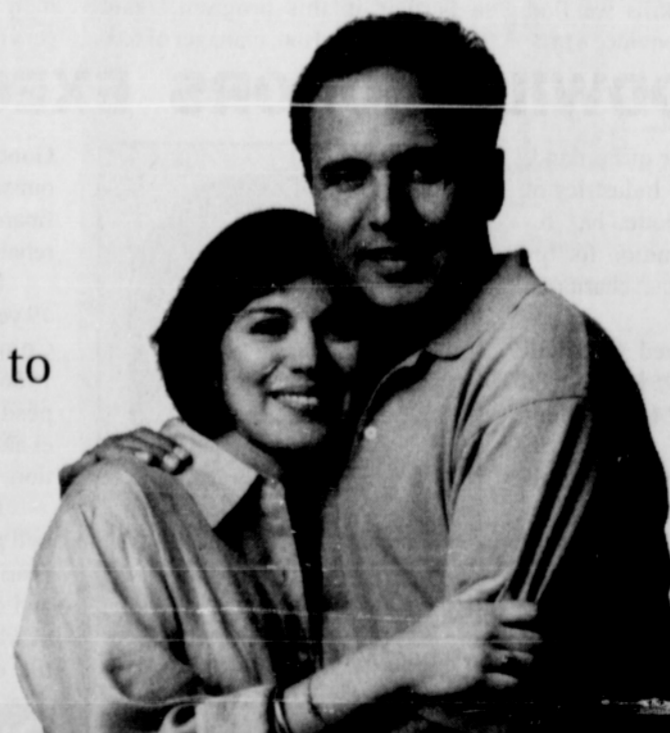

Just call Loan By Phone™ at 1-800-THE-BofA or visit the branch nearest you. And if that isn't enough, we'll give you another $500 if your loan doesn't close within 30 days. And now that you've got a few more reasons to buy a house, why not make it your home?

Bank of America

"Now we have 500 reasons to buy a house."

Mike from legal has this important message: *Offer applies to first mortgages and refinances only and excludes the Home Loan Value Program and government loan programs. Not valid with any other offer. Requires BofA checking account. $500 will be applied at closing. 30 day funding guarantee for home purchases only. Offer good through 9/1/95. Credit card offer is for new BankAmericard accounts only. Coupon booklet with savings on branch home essentials will be provided at closing while supplies last. Coupons subject to use and redemption restrictions imposed by the manufacturers. See branch for complete details. ©1995 Bank of America Oregon. Member FDIC.
