

Diversity Internships for Students Offered

The J. Paul Getty Trust is now accepting applications for summer internships for culturally diverse undergraduate students interested in exploring careers in art museums and related areas of the visual arts and the humanities.

The ten-week internships will be offered throughout the Getty Trust: the J. Paul Getty Museum, the Getty Center for the History of Art and the Humanities, the Getty Conservation Institute, the Getty Art History Information Program, the Getty Center for Education in the Arts, and the Getty Grant Program, as well as various Trust administrative departments.

Applicants must be currently enrolled in an accredited college or university and they must have completed at least two semesters or three quarters of college at the time of application. The internships are full-time, beginning June 17 and ending August 23, 1996, and provide a stipend of $3,000. Individuals will be assigned to one department and will work with a mentor on specific projects.

All application materials must be postmarked by March 4, 1996; notifications will be made by May 3.

To receive an application form, contact: Getty Undergraduate Internships for Diversity in the Arts and the Humanities, Education Department, The J. Paul Getty Museum, P. O. Box 2112, Santa Monica, CA 90407-2122.

Community Mourns Publisher's Death

She was born Jan. 23, 1937 in Manhattan, Kansas, the daughter of Percy Hickman and Frieda Murray, the oldest of four children.

As a young girl, she moved to Vanport, Ore. the city built out of the shipyard building days of World War II. She attended Holladay Elementary School in northeast Portland and graduated from Washington High School in southeast Portland. She also attended Portland Community College and Portland State University.

She married Duane Washington in 1952 and had seven children. A son, Cory, died earlier. She married Dennis Payne in 1976, but later divorced.

Before coming to work for the Portland Observer, she was employed with Oregon Adult and Family Services, Multnomah County Senior Services and the Model Cities program.

In semi-retirement, she was an avid reader and especially enjoyed being with her grandchildren.

She is survived by her mother Frieda Murray of Portland; sisters, Iva Collins and Mabel Kyles, both of Portland; a brother, Larry Hickman of Portland; five sons, Charles, Tony, Gary and Mark Washington of Portland and Ronnie Washington of Petaluma, Calif.; a daughter, Audrey Washington of Portland; 29 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Contributions in her honor may be made to the Joyce Washington Memorial Scholarship Fund in care of Bank of America.

Family members have appointed Charles Washington, the eldest of Washington's children, to take over the family-owned Portland Observer newspaper as publisher.

Metropolitan Human Rights Commission Appointments

Kevin Scott Welch, a recent graduate of Portland State University was appointed by Mayor Katz. Welch works in Public Information and Media Relations for the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission. As a freelance writer, he has been published extensively and received the Best News Story Award in the 1991 Oregon Collegiate Press Newspaper contest.

Nyla McCarthy, appointed by Mayor Katz, has experience in developing and managing complex projects focusing on the promotion of positive change in individuals, communities and organizations. She has used her skills to assist state and local governments, educational institutions, businesses and non-profits in organizational development, diversity training, health education and social marketing.

McCarthy, a member of the Actor's Equity Association, uses her theater background to teach conflict resolution to youth.

The Metropolitan Human Rights Commission welcomes applications at any time in order to maintain a pool of interested person available to fill vacancies. Call 823-5136 for information.

Calls For Affirmative Action Summit

The National Black Chamber of Commerce is asking all representatives of minority and women business organizations and owners of minority & women businesses to assemble at the Warner Center Hilton Hotel, 6360 Canoga Avenue, Woodland Hills California on April 11-12, 1996. This summit will involve people representing Black, Hispanic, Asian, Native American, Women and Disabled Veterans. The purpose is to solidify a strategy that will challenge the opponents of affirmative action; opponents such Board of Regents and financial supporters of the California Civil Rights Initiative (CCRI), such as Virginia Knotts, Partner, Knottsberry Farm, Granite Construction Company, and Fontana Steel.

Some of the planning strategies are:

- Orchestrate a successful economic leveraging (to buy or not to buy) of products and services provided by companies owned by those who have contributed to the anti-affirmative action movement.

- Start a campaign that will encourage individuals, companies and governments to boycott California products such as planes, computers, software, etc. until the anti-affirmative action furor is ended.

- To organize massive rallies and demonstrations at the Republican National Convention to be held in San Diego, August 11-14, 1996. These rallies would show the outrage of those affected by the anti-affirmative movement and to present opposition to the Dole-Canady Bill that will be voted on during the 105th Congressional Session and the current rhetoric uttered by every Republican presidential candidate.

- Official auditing of the minority business participation programs at companies such as Oracle, Apple, McDonnell Douglas and Lockheed. A public rating system can be established.

According to Paul Guerrero, President, Untied Minority Business Entrepreneurs, "It is time for us to take the Offensive! Working together: Minority and Women Business Associations and their statewide memberships will be a force to be reckoned with".

NBCC Chairman and CEO Harry Alford states, "We are calling this summit because it is time for those of us who cherish the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to come to its defense. The attackers of affirmative action want to abolish the Civil Rights Act. We say 'pox on your house!' Too many lives, too much blood, sweat and tears have been shed to get us this far. We will never go back!" the NBCC phone # is 202-416-1622, fax 202-363-0866.

Responding to consumer demand for more authentic, Mexican-style flavor, Ruiz Food Products is introducing a new line of frozen restaurant-quality burritos, enchiladas and Quesadillas.

Building The Dream

A "grass root" supported kick-off campaign is under way and gaining momentum to create a heroic scale bronze monument depicting Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. delivering his message of "The Dream: Dr. King is flanked by symbolic figures of our society representing the worker, the immigrant, and the child. The base of the statue will have bronze-bas reliefs identifying great individuals from history such as Gandhi on the salt march, Chief Joseph leading his people to safety, Rosa Parks on the bus and more.

The M.L.K. Jr. monument committee chaired by Senator Bill McCoy is having a public awareness fund raising kick-off press conference at the Oregon Convention Center on Friday, March 22 for an unveiling of the small model of the larger composition that is under construction by the award winning sculptor and professor of art Michael Florin Dente. Chief of police Charles Moose will be the special guest speaker.

The non-profit M.L.K. statue project encourages you to put this date on your calendars and asks that you please plant to attend. Many corporations such as the Trail Blazer Association and Emanuel Hospital, along with small local businesses and neighborhood associations will be presenting donations at this time.

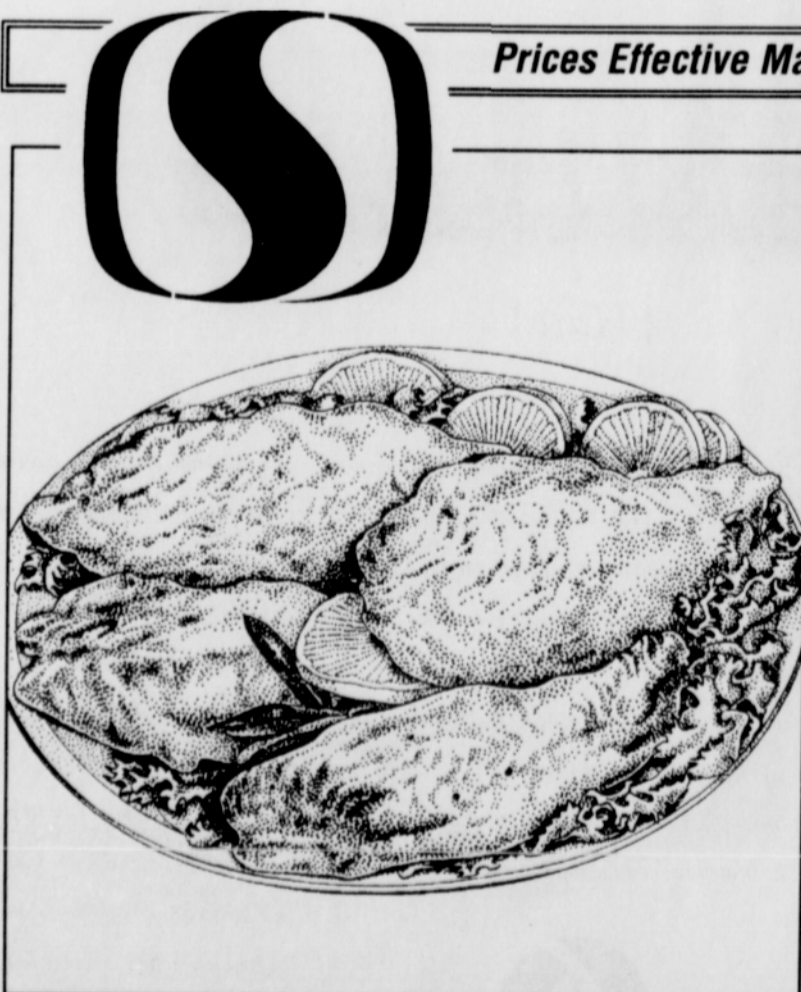

The first five countries to extend the vote to women were New Zealand in 1893, Australia in 1902, Finland in 1906, Norway in 1913 and Denmark in 1915. Great Britain gave women the vote in 1919 and the U.S. allowed women to vote in provincial elections in 1920.

New York and Vermont lead the states of the United States in maple syrup production but the Canadian province of Quebec produces more maple syrup than all the states together.
