Set It Off

New Line Cinema's new high-stakes action-drama, Set It Off, starring Jada Pinkette, Queen Latifah, Vivica A. Fox, newcomer Kimberly Elise, and Blair Underwood, will open in select theatres across the country on Wednesday, November 6, 1996.

Stony (Pinkette), Cleo (Latifah), Tisean (Elise) and Frankie (Fox) have been through a to together while growing up in the projects of Los Angeles. They've been scammed by sleazy employers, slammed by heartless boyfriends, and slapped around by neighborhood cops. No matter how tough the going got--when one found herself in trouble, she had three life-long friends backing her up. Now comes the ultimate test.

A tragic chain of events has brought these inseparable companions closer than imaginable. As one grapples with the possibility of losing her only child, the foursome find themselves on the edge of desperation. With their world in turmoil and their backs against the wall, they decide to seize their fortune--literally. Virtually overnight, the women spiral into an uncharacteristic world of crime.

New Line Cinema presents a Peak Production of a film by F. Gary Gray, Set It Off. The film is directed by Gray from screenplay by Takashi Bufford and Kate Lanier. It is produced by partners Dale Pollock and Oren Koules.

Set It Off is rated "R" and has a running time of approximately 120 minutes.

New perspectives on an age-old idea

What are angels? Many people believe in angels, but few can define these enigmatic spirits. Now theologian Matthew Fox and biologist Rupert Sheldrake--pioneers in modern religious thinking and scientific theory--launch a ground-breaking exploration into the ancient concept of the angel in The Physics of Angels (HarperCollins). And in Omens of Millennium (Riverhead Books) Harold Bloom reveals how the concept of angels have always played a central role in Western culture.
