

HAPPY KWANZAA

Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation and its employees know the importance of our partnership with the community. It takes all of us to make our community a better place to live and work.

Improving the quality of life for the disadvantaged—socially or physically—is the number one goal of our corporate contribution program. In keeping with the spirit of Kwanzaa, Brown & Williamson supports organizations that help those who sometimes are unable to help themselves. We're helping to make a difference through our support of groups like Dare to Care, which provides food for the needy; Clothe-A-Child, an organization that makes sure new clothing is available for school-age children in need; and Metro United Way. Our support of groups like these demonstrates our commitment to the Kwanzaa principles throughout the year.

A strong sense of community is a high priority at Brown & Williamson. It's the reason we will always be responsive to our community's needs.
