Police Investigate
Suspicious Death

On May 2, 1997, just after midnight, Friday morning, Portland Fire Bureau members responded to Washington Park on a call of a grass fire. At the foot of the Lewis and Clark Monument, fire personnel discovered a body that had been burned beyond recognition. Portland Police Officers and Detectives responded to the scene.

The identity and cause of death of this individual is unknown pending the medical Examiners findings.

Police are investigating this as a suspicious death. Investigative-Sergeants K. Ferrell and D. Ruby are the investigators.

Murder Investigation

On Sunday, May 4, 1997, at approximately 1:00 AM, Portland Police responded to the New

Portland Police News

Bangkok restaurant, located at 8001 SE Powell Boulevard, regarding an assault.

Police arrived to discover the victim unconscious on the sidewalk outside of the restaurant. Police took into custody two men in relationship to this crime.

The victim was transported to Portland Adventist Hospital, where he died at approximately 4:00 am in the morning.

It appears that the three men had an argument inside of the New Bangkok Restaurant. All three were asked to leave the premises and were escorted to the front door. The argument continued, leading to an assault where the victim ended up unconscious on the sidewalk. The injuries that lead to the homicide appear to have been caused by the physical confrontation.

Arrested are Trah V. Pham, male

Asian, DOB May 02, 1958, and Hieu T. Dang, male Asian, DOB July 26, 1966, both of Northeast Portland. The two have been charged with manslaughter I. It is unknown if this homicide is gang related.

Police Investigate North Portland Homicide

On Sunday, May 4, 1997, at 4:30 pm, Portland Police responded to 3904 N Albina on the scene of an apparent homicide. Police were called to the multi-unit apartment house by one of the victim's roommates, who discovered the body.

The victim, white male, approximately 60 years of age, shared the apartment with two roommates. Death is believed to have occurred this date and was caused by blunt physical trauma.

No suspect have yet been identified and the investigation is continuing.
