Business recruitment recognized

In an effort to increase the number of African American, Hispanic and Native American MBA degree holders and future business leaders, Graduate Management Admission Council has teamed up with two of the nation's largest and most prestigious professional organizations to host a program titled, Destination MBA.

"While minority groups are gaining ground in the number of graduate degrees being obtained, we are still very much under represented in the world of business and business leadership," says Ms. Nicole Chestang, Vice President of Graduate Management Admission Council. "That's why we've designed and partnered with the National Black MBA Association and the National Society of Hispanic MBA's in this grass-root effort to increase the numbers of people of color in leadership roles in business through the MBA degree."
