This Week in History

On June 21, 1964, three civil rights workers disappeared in Philadelphia, Miss. Their bodies were found buried in an earthen dam six weeks later. Eight members of the Ku Klux Klan went to prison on federal conspiracy charges; none served more than six years.
 On June 22, 1940, during World War II, Adolf Hitler gained a stunning victory as France was forced to sign an armistice eight days after German forces overran Paris.
 On June 24, 1997, the Air Force released a report on the so-called "Roswell Incident," suggesting the alien bodies witnesses reported seeing in 1947 were actually life-sized dummies.

The most valuable thing we can do for the psyche, occasionally, is to let it rest, wander, live in the changing light of a room, not to try to do or be anything whatsoever.

Collision Sends Five To Hospital

On Monday, June 26, 2000, at 1:44 a.m., officers responded to a motor vehicle accident in the northbound lanes of I-205 on the Glen Jackson Bridge. Investigation revealed that 51 year-old Allen Wayne Wampler, of Tillamook, Oregon, employed as a construction worker on the bridge, was operating a 1993 Ford F-250 pickup with its amber caution lights activated. A passenger in the truck was 46 year-old construction worker Bernard Morrison, of Vancouver, Washington. Wampler was proceeding northbound in the inside lane, in a section of freeway that was closed off with orange barrels and cones. As Wampler turned right into another lane of the closed off section, his vehicle was struck in the passenger side by a northbound vehicle. Both Wampler and Morrison were transported to Providence Hospital with injuries.

The driver of the second vehicle, a 1991 Ford Mustang convertible, was 25 year-old Brandon Lee Swart of Vancouver, Washington. 25 year-old Cory Wilson of Vancouver, Washington, was a passenger in the car. After the initial collision with the truck, Swart's vehicle struck a pedestrian construction worker, 51 year-old Stanley J. Marciniuk of Newberg, Oregon.

Swart was extricated from his vehicle by the Portland Fire Bureau and was transported to Emanuel Hospital by Lifelight. Wilson and Marciniuk were transported to Emanuel Hospital by ambulance. All three are reported to be in serious condition.
