Around the World in 20 Days The Story of Our History-Making Balloon Flight

BY BERTRAND PICCARD AND BRIAN JONES

JOHN WILEY & SONS; 1999

In this dramatic and inspiring account, Bertrand Piccard and Brian Jones, the pilots of the Breitling Orbiter 3 balloon, tell the remarkable story of their record-breaking, first-ever around-the-world balloon flight in March 1999, one of the great feats of human endurance.

By the time Piccard and Jones took off from Switzerland in March 1, they had already faced many problems and delays and the prospects of winning the race around the world looked dim – a rival balloon was many days ahead of them.

Then, just as they were about to cancel their attempt, a perfect weather window opened up and they were off. As their rivals faltered and ditched in the ocean, Piccard and Jones caught the jet-stream winds for an exciting and perilous ride.

Using their logbook and journals, as well as photographs taken on board, Piccard and Jones have brought their marathon flight vividly to life, capturing the emotion of their many moments of high tension, as well as the uplifting humor and camaraderie, both between the pilots and with their ground crew, which helped them persevere.

Their account tells the story of a great adventure, and shows how two very different characters forged a unique relationship in the most challenging circumstances of their lives.
