Albina Ministerial Alliance Turns 50

The Albina Ministerial Alliance will celebrate 50 years of services for children and families with a dinner and auction on April 24.

The event will be held at the Sheraton Airport at 6:30 p.m., with donations going to support the services provided to the community through the ministerial alliance's social services department.

Your church, company or organization can help in this effort by becoming a major sponsor, co-sponsor, major contributor or contributor. Supporters can also help by placing an ad in the program booklet, donating an item for the auction and purchasing tickets. Sponsorships and ads should be submitted as soon as possible, but no later than April 2. Auction items should be donated as soon as possible to give the alliance an opportunity to write up and print the item descriptions.

Attendance reservations are encouraged as soon as possible, however tickets may be purchased as late as April 20th. Seating will be based on a first paid basis.

If you have questions or need additional information, call Kaye Molden, event coordinator, at 503-285-0493, extension 205.

CNN News Anchor Bernard Shaw to Receive 2001 Murrow Award

Bernard Shaw, known for his news anchor work on CNN, has been selected to receive Washington State University's annual Edward R. Murrow Award.

Shaw, who recently retired, is a 20-year network veteran and CNN's principal Washington, D.C. anchor.

Shaw will receive the award April 18 when he delivers the Edward R. Murrow Symposium address. The 7:30 p.m. event, set for Beasley Performing Arts Coliseum, is open to the public without charge.

In January 1991, Shaw was one of three CNN reporters who broadcast to a worldwide audience of more than one billion with continuous coverage of the first night of the Allied Forces' bombing of Baghdad during Operation Desert Storm. As a result of that coverage, Shaw has received numerous national and international awards.

His regular broadcast assignments include coanchoring "Inside Politics" and "CNN Worldview," a half-hour international newscast, both airing each weekday evening.

"We are absolutely delighted to have a journalist of Bernard Shaw's caliber as this year's recipient," said Murrow Communication School Director Alex Tan. "He is right out of the Murrow mold for the straightforward, quality journalism this award has come to represent."

Shaw joins a distinguished roster of Murrow Award recipients, including Al Neuharth, USA Today founder; ABC Sports commentator and WSU alumnus Keith Jackson; CNN founder Ted Turner; Seattle Times publisher Frank Blethen; and Sam Donaldson, ABC News.

Symposium events will again include a Career Day where Northwest communication alumni counsel university and high school students interested in the profession.

Panel discussions involving WSU communication faculty, students and regional professionals also are planned.

Dearest Diana,
I just got off the phone talking with your father. He seemed real pleased that I contacted him. (Hal Hal) So, I guess I won't do that anymore.

It's amazing what it takes sometimes for a man to realize how wrong he has been.

Everyday and night since you've been gone I've searched my soul to find who I really am. I don't like what I've found. I didn't know which hurts worse, losing you or realizing I've been lost myself all these years.

All of my life has counted for so little and I feel so bad for the influence I've had on you that has kept your life from counting for so long. I'd give anything if I could do it all over. But I know that's not possible. What is possible however is to start over new from this day forward. Whether you ever come back or not, my life will never again be the same, because I have given my life to Jesus Christ. It is because of that fact that I recognize what a mess of things I have made. One of the most important things to me for the rest of my life is to tell you how sorry I am and to ask for your forgiveness.

It is agonizing to me not to be able to talk to you, but I understand how you must feel. It's amazing how clearly a man can think after being alcohol, cigarettes and drug free for almost 2 months. Only the power of Jesus Christ have enabled me to do this. I know that if you were to talk to me you could here the difference in my voice. I wish I could make up to you for a lifetime of bad choices, but that is up to you. I can only offer you my new heart and my sincere hope that God will some how let you know that this is real.

I fell such peace and if ever do call me I know you will sense this new found peace in me. I miss you everyday and I would give anything if you could see this change in me.

I love you very much and count you as my best friend.

Your loving husband,
Dwayne
