

Eat, Stay and Visit at Only at the Best in the Northwest

By Jena McPherson

Avalon Travel Publishing; 2001

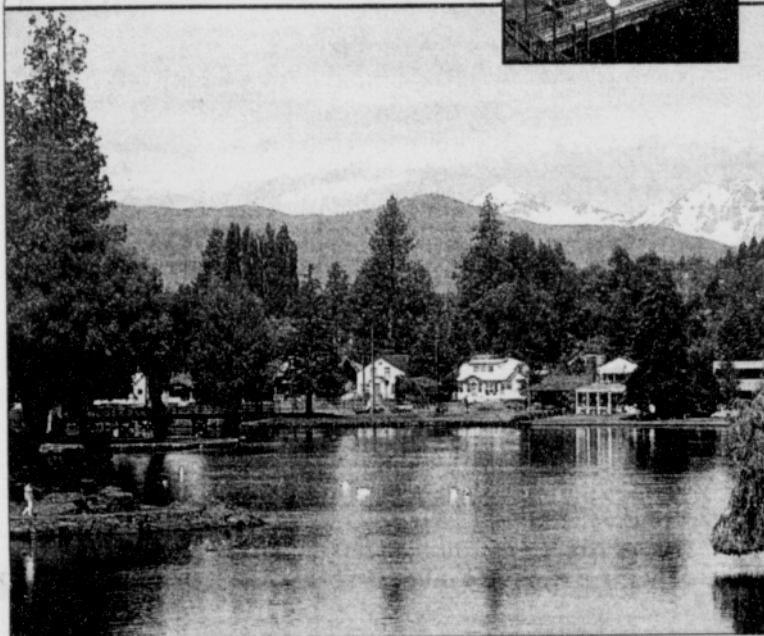

Pick up most travel guides and you'll find long lists of restaurants, hotels, and museums - you have to guess whether or not the places are worth your time and money.

"Travel Smart: Pacific Northwest" is different - it lists only the best.

Author Jena MacPherson lives on the shores of Puget Sound in Washington and has reported on the Pacific Northwest for more than 10 years. Whether you're planning a great day, a weekend getaway, or an extended trip, you can count on her recommendations for good values, undiscovered treasures, and simply the best places to eat, stay, and sightsee!

Maybe you'd like to dine on tiny Olympia oysters or grilled salmon in Seattle while admiring the impressive skyline? Or how about kayaking around the San Juan Islands? You'll also find out about the area's Native American heritage, Oregon's Shakespeare Festival, and the mermaid-green rain forest of the Olympic Peninsula.

A Handbook Advocates for Doing What's Right

By Tavis Smiley

First Anchor Books; 2000

What are you waiting for? It's time to take a stand and get to work making the world a better place, and Black Entertainment Television host Tavis Smiley can help you get started. Through his nightly television show and in his radio commentaries, Smiley has helped to galvanize public opinion and initiate national grassroots campaigns on everything from corporate responsibility to voter turnout. "Doing What's Right" is his handbook for advocacy.

In these pages, Smiley draws on his experience as a prominent advocate to provide practical advice on how to fight for the causes in which you believe. You'll find tips on everything from setting up meetings and working with the media, to creating efficient phone trees and devising catchy slogans. A simple worksheet to help you identify the issues that are important to you is also included. For everyone who wants to be a voice for change, "Doing What's Right" is a must-have.
