Lewis Might Get His Wish to Fight Tyson

Lennox Lewis' knockout of Hasim Rahman could set up a major match for Lewis against Mike Tyson.

LAS VEGAS (AP) - Lennox Lewis has his championship belts back. Now he wants Mike Tyson.

"Since the Evander Holyfield fight (in 1999) I've been waiting for Tyson," Lewis said Sunday after regaining the WBC-IBF heavyweight titles on a fourth-round knockout of Hasim Rahman.

The 36-year-old Lewis might not have to wait much longer.

Tyson congratulated Lewis for recapturing the title.

Making it happen probably would be easier without Don King, who promoted Saturday night's rematch at Mandalay Bay.

Rahman has a multifight deal with King, but Lewis had a contract with the promoter only for Saturday's match.

Lewis called King "a truly great promoter," but Tyson has said he would not fight again for King. He and King are suing one another.

In boxing, however, yesterday's enemies are today's friends, especially when megabucks are involved.

The 35-year-old Tyson, a former undisputed champion, is expected to fight Ray Mercer on Jan. 19 at a site to be determined. The match has not been announced officially.

John Ruiz is the WBA heavyweight champion, and will defend his title in a third bout against Holyfield on Dec. 5 at Foxwoods

Resort Casino at Ledyard, Conn. Lewis had become undisputed champion by outpointing Holyfield, but was stripped of the WBA for not giving Holyfield a rematch.

A Tyson fight would be a mandatory WBC title defense for Lewis.

Lewis appeared headed for a Tyson bout when he was upset by Rahman on a one-punch knockout in the fifth round April 22 in South Africa.

Lewis admittedly took Rahman too lightly in that fight. Not this time.

"He couldn't handle my movement," Lewis said. "I gave him different looks."

Rahman's championship reign of 209 days was the shortest in heavyweight history — four days shorter than that of Leon Spinks, who won and lost in fights with Muhammad Ali in 1978.

"He had his 15 minutes of glory," Lewis said. "The titles were on loan. They're now back with me."

"That's three times, baby," Lewis shouted after becoming the third man to win at least a share of the heavyweight championship three times. The others were Ali and Holyfield.

The fight will be rebroadcast on HBO Nov. 24, at 10 p.m. EST and PST.

SPORTS BRIEFS

Victory for Oregon State

Oregon State scored five touchdowns and a field goal in a game that appeared to be a rout before Northern Arizona recovered a fumble for a touchdown. Oregon State led 31-0 at halftime of a game that was mostly an appreciation day for OSU's seniors. If not for two fumbles, the Beavers probably would have had a shutout Saturday against Northern Arizona which the Beavers won with a final score of 45-10.

Lewis, '84 Teammates to Join Hall of Fame

INDIANAPOLIS - Carl Lewis, one of the country's greatest track athletes, and three other members of the 1984 U.S. Olympic team were voted into the National Track and Field Hall of Fame. Lewis, long jumper-sprinter Larry Myricks and distance runners Henry Marsh and Alberto Salazar will be inducted Nov. 30 in Mobile, Ala., during USA Track & Field's annual meeting.

Els, Goosen Win World Cup in Playoff

GOTEMBA, Japan - South Africans Ernie Els and Retief Goosen eagled the 72nd hole, then parred the second hole of a sudden-death playoff to win the World Golf Championships - EMC World Cup. The four-way playoff also involved Denmark's Thomas Bjorn and Soren Hansen, New Zealand's Michael Campbell and David Smail and Americans Tiger Woods and David Duval.

Miami Back on Top of Coaches' Poll

A 59-0 stomping of Syracuse helped propel Miami back to the NO. 1 ranking in this week's USA TODAY/ESPN Coaches' Poll released on Sunday. The Hurricanes, who fell from the top spot for one week, garnered 33 first-place votes, while idle Nebraska dropped to No. 2.

Another Cy Young for Randy Johnson

NEW YORK - Randy Johnson won his third straight National League Cy Young Award, collecting 30 of 32 first-place baseball writers' ballots to easily beat Arizona teammate Curt Schilling. Johnson, who won the AL honor while with Seattle in 1995, finished 21-6 and led the majors with a 2.49 ERA and 372 strikeouts.

Coach K to Stay at Duke a Long Time

DURHAM, N.C. - Mike Krzyzewski is set to finish his basketball coaching career at Duke after the school gave him a new deal through at least 2011. The contract allows Krzyzewski - a three-time NCAA champion - to become a school consultant after his days on the bench.
