Inmates Get Life Skills Training

Ten years ago, the Oregon Dept. of Corrections started a partnership with the Women in Community Service Lifeskills Program. Since then, over 66 Oregon female inmates have graduated from this program with better skills to become self-reliant and economically independent.

Lifeskills of Portland includes nine weeks of intensive training courses that provide a comprehensive menu of services incorporating job readiness, personal empowerment, support services and life management skills necessary for living a positive life in the community. Inmates also receive case management that helps them plan their transition into the community.

For those that choose, they are matched up with a mentor for support starting weeks before their release and then continuing for six months and longer. They also receive clothes to wear for the graduation and job search.

After completing the program, the women graduate in a full graduation ceremony located in the community at a church that has donated their space, time and food. Friends, family, supporters and mentors attend. This year they are incorporating an educational scholarship for WICS graduates as well.

Local Drug Ring Busted

During the past two months, members of the Portland Police Bureau's Drugs and Vice Division investigated several individuals involved in a large-scale drug distribution network operating in the Portland Metropolitan area.

Late last month, officers executed search warrants in both Portland and Lake Oswego. During the execution of the warrants, officers seized more than 5 pounds of cocaine, 90 grams of crack cocaine, 100 grams of heroin, $78,000 in US Currency, 2 assault rifles, and 1 handgun. Officers arrested 43-year-old Rafael Campos-Munos, 27-year-old Jose Alfredo Jimenez-Nunez, 37-year-old Dona Maria Del Carmen, and 34-year-old Jorge Nieto. All four individuals are now in the custody and the investigation has been referred to the US Attorney's Office.

Detectives Seeking Assault Witnesses

Portland Police Detectives are currently investigating an alleged assault involving two off-duty police officers that occurred last year on Jan. 24, near S.W. 10th and Washington. Investigators have interviewed all known witnesses. Detectives believe at least one other person, described as a slender white female in her twenties with a long red ponytail may have driven by the location in a dark colored "Toyota Tacoma" style pickup truck as the incident was occurring. An unknown white male accompanied her. Anyone with information regarding this incident is encouraged to call Portland Police Detectives at 503-823-0596.
