

POLICE

CRIMESTOPPERS

Crime Stoppers Offers Reward

The Clackamas County Sheriff's Office, in cooperation with Crime Stoppers, is asking for your help in locating and apprehending Kenneth Donald "Kenny" Brown.

Brown is wanted on felony charges out of Clackamas County and for a state probation violation. He's a 22-year-old white male with a date of birth of Aug. 27, 1979. He is 6 feet tall and weighs approximately 150 pounds with green eyes and brown hair that may be bleached blonde. Brown was living in a house on Lucky Lane in Estacada, but he is now on the run.

Kenneth Brown

Task Force Hunts Suspect

The Portland Police Bureau's Auto Theft Task Force, in cooperation with Crime Stoppers, is asking for your help in locating and apprehending Vitality A. Saranchuk.

A felony no-bail arrest warrant, charging Saranchuk with Unauthorized Use of a Motor Vehicle, is on file in Clackamas Street.

Vitality A. Saranchuk

Multnomah County. Saranchuk is a 21-year-old white male with a date of birth of Jan. 5, 1981. He is 5 feet, 8 inches tall and weighs approximately 160 pounds with brown hair and hazel eyes. His last known address was at Northeast 174th and Clackamas Street.

Crime Stoppers is offering a cash reward of up to $1,000 for information, reported to Crime Stoppers, that leads to an arrest in these cases, or any unsolved felony crime, and you need not give your name. Call Crime Stoppers at 503-823-HELP.

Logging Truck Arson

(AP) — Members of the Oregon FBI's Joint Terrorism Task Force have arrested two men in last year's pre-dawn arson of logging equipment in Eagle Creek and are seeking two more suspects.

Agents arrested Jacob David Bardwell Sherman, 20, and Jeremy David Rosenbloom, 25, at their residences without incident following their indictments. Also indicted and at large are Angela Marie Cesario, 23, and Michael Scarpitti, 28, also known as "Tre Arrow."

The arson at Schoppert Logging Co. on June 1, 2001, destroyed one truck and damaged another and a front-end loader, causing about $50,000 in damage. Eight incendiary bombs were planted in trucks parked in the lot, but only four ignited. There were no injuries.

Authorities said there were similarities in evidence found at Eagle Creek and that found at an April 15, 2001 attack that damaged three cement trucks at Ross Island Sand & Gravel in Portland. Damage there was about $200,000.

The Earth Liberation Front claimed responsibility for the Ross Island attack, but no group has claimed responsibility for the Eagle Creek incident, prosecutors said.

Bush Visit Fans a Wave of Protests

Protesters clash with police as pepper spray wafts through the air (AP)—Riot police used pepper spray and struck some demonstrators with batons after ordering hundreds of people to leave a protest near the Hilton Hotel where President Bush attended a fundraiser Thursday.

Protesters hammered on the hoods of police cars as pepper spray wafted through the air. Protesting Bush's foreign policy, they chanted "Drop Bush, Not Bombs."

Bush supporters in formal attire were jostled and taunted by protesters as they arrived for a fundraiser for the Oregon re-election campaign of U.S. Sen. Gordon Smith. After elbowing through the demonstrators, they were checked by Secret Service agents before they were allowed inside the hotel.

Brian Schmutz, spokesman for the Portland Police Bureau, said protesters threw things at the police.

Protesters at one point pushed down a barricade and a female police officer who was standing behind it, police spokesman Henry Groepper said. The officer sprained or broke her wrist falling down, and two patrol cars were damaged, Groepper said.

Police ordered about 500 protesters to move. Riot police wearing helmets then walked into the area, pushing activists with their batons. Some activists fell. Police then fired aerosol canisters of pepper spray at the protesters.

A Portland police officer aims pepper spray at protesters who clashed with law enforcement during President Bush's visit to Portland. (AP photo)

Police also used pepper spray after about 150 demonstrators blocked vehicle access to Morrison Bridge.

Five protesters were arrested through the afternoon, Groepper said.

Many of the protesters criticized a new forest initiative announced earlier in the day by Bush that would make it easier for timber companies to cut wood from fire-prone national forests.

The new policy is classic doublespeak," said Kenneth Kreuschu, 24, of Cascadia Forest Alliance. "It has been shown time and again that more cutting leads to more fire. The new policy is a hoax."

Some of the activists were worried about a possible war with Iraq. "I don't think any American boys' lives are worth a barrel of oil," said Rob Moitoza, 57, who carried a sign that said: "Vets Against Bush."

Moitoza said he served two years in the Navy aboard an aircraft carrier during the Vietnam War and fears a much worse conflict if U.S. troops are sent to Iraq.

If he (Bush) starts a war against Iraq, it will be to get re-elected. All he cares about is wealth and power," Moitoza said.

Before flying to Portland from Medford, Bush was taken to a still-smoldering fire.

About a dozen protesters dotted Bush's motorcade route. Some waved signs saying, "No attack of Iraq. You can't fix Daddy's mistake" and "More forests, less Bush."

The demonstrators along the route were far outnumbered by people waiting at the ends of their driveways who held signs saying "We love you" and "We support you."

Man Charged in Vancouver Kidnapping

Escolastico Borboa

(AP) — An Oregon man has been arrested for investigation in the Aug. 16 abduction Friday of a 2-year-old girl from a family gathering. The child was found an hour later, three miles away.

Escolastico Casey Borboa, 46, of Silverton, was booked into the Clark County Jail for investigation of first-degree kidnapping and second-degree assault, police said.

The girl was treated at Southwest Washington Medical Center and released.

"She suffered some pretty serious injuries," said Cpl. Mike Davis.

About a dozen members of the girl's family were playing basketball in a city park when they noticed she was missing at about 9 p.m.

After a 20-minute search, they called police.

An hour later the girl showed up, naked and bleeding from her mouth, at a home on a quiet cul-de-sac about 3 miles from the park.

"I was in the kitchen to get something to drink — then I looked and there she was," said the resident, Lillie Sang.

"She was trying to point and show me something, but I couldn't understand because she was speaking Spanish," Sang said.

Vancouver police Lt. Marla Schuman said officers don't know how she was abducted.

"Because of her age, trying to get that from her has been hard," Schuman said.

Borboa speaks only English, Schuman said.

Loved Ones Help Former Offenders Make Successful Transitions

Two community groups are joining forces to help former inmates make a successful transition back to society.

The Multnomah County Department of Community Justice and the Citizen's United for Rehabilitation of Errants have developed a series of workshops to empower the families and friends of the inmates.

The orientation provides an opportunity for family and friends to ask questions and receive information before their family member is released about what they can do to assist with successful transition, as well as what is expected from the offender once released.

Attendees will receive a copy of "A Guide to Release and Supervision for Offenders, Their Families and Friends."

Department of Community Justice's mission is to enhance community safety and reduce criminal activity by holding youth and adults accountable in a fair and just manner, assisting them to develop skills necessary for success, and effectively using public resources.

The upcoming orientations are held from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. on Thursday, Aug. 29, Thursday, Sept. 26 and Thursday, Oct. 24.

For more information, location of orientation, or to register, contact Multnomah County Department of Community Justice, Transition Services Unit at 503-988-3081 ext. 22103.

1852 2002
150 YEARS
WELLS FARGO

WELLS FARGO

The Next Stage®

Free Checking with more of what you want.

Product packages that can save you hundreds on the services you need most.

Home Equity Financing for college education, home improvement and major purchases.

Long-range financial products and planning to get you to your Next Stage.

Free 24-hour online financial center with the leader in Internet banking, wells Fargo.com, where you can check balances, transfer funds and more.

Talk to a Wells Fargo banker today about free checking that offers you more of what you want.

wellsfargo.com

© 2002 Wells Fargo Bank. All rights reserved. Member FDIC.