RELIGION

60 Years Together

Doctors Otis Frank and Johnnie Mae Brown will celebrate their 60th wedding anniversary at Maranatha Church at 4 p.m. on Sunday, Aug. 31. The couple will celebrate with their children, grandchildren, greatgrandchildren, extended family and friends. The Browns are pastors emeritus of Maranatha Church of God, 4222 N.E. 12th Ave. For more information, call 503-287-6497.

Hands Across The I-5 Bridge

continued A from Metro

prayer offered by the Rev. W.G. Hardy, disrupted. followed by remarks by State Sen. Avel sioner Serena Cruz. In Vancouver, the Rev. Terry Moe will offer a prayer, followed by remarks from Clark County Commissioner Craig Pridemore.

bridge will be accompanied by the have been arranged. Redland Singers, a Native American tugboat blowing its horn to signal the event's closure. Participants will walk Services and Corrections.

on the bridge's east sidewalk to ensure that motor vehicle traffic will not be

Oregon residents who want to partici-Gordly and Multnomah County Commis- pate in the event should meet 9:30 a.m. at the Doubletree Hotel Columbia River, 1401 North Hayden Island Drive, on the east side of the bridge. Washington residents should gather at The Quay, 100 Columbia Participants walking across the St., at the same time. Appropriate permits

The event is sponsored by RAP, Ordrumming unit. Once participants span egon Partnership, the Asian/Pacific Amerithe bridge by holding hands, there will can Consortium on Substance Abuse, be a moment of silence, followed by a Central City Concern, InAct, the Red Land Singers and Clark County Community ence from Sept. 10 through Sept. 13. from various parts of the country. Services will be held nightly at 7 p.m.

Ministry Presents 'His Glory Conference'

Cathedral of Praise Ministries pre- istration is not required. All services sents "His Glory Conference 2003," include life-changing worship and praise, an apostolic and prophetic confer- anointed musical guests and speakers

The host of His Glory Conference at the Cathedral of Praise Church, at is Apostle Levell Thomas, senior pas-1821 S.E. 39th Ave. at Stephens. , tor of Cathedral of Praise Ministries. Worship services are free and reg- For information, call 503-235-2127.

U Black Journalist, Community Volunteer Dies

Kathryn Hall Bogle wrote for the Portland Observer

and other publications

Funeral services were scheduled Wednesday at 10 a.m. at St. Phillip the Deacon Episcopal Church in northeast Portland for Kathryn Hall Bogle, a longtime Portland resident and African American leader.

She was 96. A private entombment is planned at Lincoln Memorial Park.

She was born Christmas Eve, 1906 on an Oklahoma Territory farm and died Thursday, Aug. 21, 2003.

She arrived in Portland in 1911 with her mother, Lillian Finley Hall. She attended Chapman Grade School. Her divorced mother married a railroad man, Herman Baker. His employment meant short stays living in Montana, Seattle and Tacoma. She attended Mechanical Arts High School in St. Paul, Minnesota; Garfield High in Seattle; Jefferson in Portland; and graduated from Portland's Washington High. She was the first African-American to have an article published in The Oregonian when, in February, 1937 she wrote, " An American Negro Speaks of Color." As an independent journalist she wrote other pieces for The Oregonian, The Northwest Enterprise, The Portland Observer, The Skanner, The Pittsburgh Courier and Chicago Defender She was an early member of St. Phillip The Deacon. joining the church in 1931. She was an active member and, together with her husband, Richard Sr., devoted time and energy to Young People's Fellowship in the late 1930's She ran youth programs again in the late 40s and early 50s with additional activities during the summer months.

She was a driving force in the local chapter of the NAACP, a member of the Urban League of Portland, the Reed College Women's Group, Moral Rearmament, a docent at the Portland Art Museum, and the founder of the Portland chapter of Links. In addition, she mentored many young people, including budding artists, journalists and musicians.

Her loves were her husband of 51 years, Richard Sr., her family, her Japanese garden, flowers, and above all her Master, the Lord in heaven.

She was preceded in death by her husband of 51 years, Richard Waldo Bogle Sr. in 1979, and her sister Bertha in 1962. She leaves her son Richard Waldo Bogle Jr., daughter Linda Metellus, 5 grandchildren, 12 great grandchildren and 1 great great granddaughter.

Business Pioneer Manuel Scott Remembered

Christian workers for fellowship 6401 N.E. 10th Avenue Portland, Oregon 97211

Church of the Living God

Pastor and First Lady Roy G. Maxie Sunday School 9:45 A.M. Morning Worship 11:30 A.M. Evening Worship 7:00 P.M. Weds Bible Study 7:00 P.M.

"Where there is no vision, The People perish."

Services

For more information please call (503) 284-5171 Everyone's Welcome

African American entrepreneur dead at 79

Manuel Scott, who spent most of his career as a partner in Coast Industries, one of Oregon's oldest African American owned business, died Aug. 10, at his home in Portland. He was 79.

Mr. Scott was the oldest of nine children born to Mary and Henry Daniel Scott Sr. He grew up working on a farm in Lake Providence, La. In 1940, he graduated from Providence High School.

In 1945, he joined the Air Force to serve his country during World War II. He received an Honorable Discharge at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Sumner Street.

Mr. Scott's early career was in the automobile industry. He worked at Frank's Chevrolet in Portland and later at dealerships in Vancouver. In 1959, he joined his brother, Henry D. Scott Jr. at Coast Janitorial Service. He served as sales manager, vice president, and eventually as vice chairman. With his contribution, Coast Janitorial developed into a multi-state, multi-million dollar enterprise. The company acquired Empire Security Services and changed the name to Coast Industries. Inc.

Mr. Scott loved his family, his church, Bethel AME, and playing golf. He was a member of Leisure Hour Golf Club and traveled to play golf in places such as Pebble Beach, Calif. and Nassau, Bahamas.

He leaves to cherish his memory, two daughters Linda Scott and Marleta Mosby; a son, Robert Chinn; four brothers, Henry, H.B., Sam and Terry, three sisters, Bernice Noble, Ethel Love and . Shirley McCoy; 25 grandchildren, a greatgrandchild and a host of nieces, nephews and friends. A brother, Albert Scott Sr. preceded him in death.

A special thanks to Mary Crooms, his friend and companion of the last five years, and to Ronnie Harris, his caretaker.

Cast Your Anxieties on Him

After relocating

to Portland, he met

Minnie Eva Harvey

and they were married June 1, 1949.

Shortly after their marriage, they purchased their family home on Northeast

BY ETHEL J. BATES FOR THE PORTLAND OBSERVER

We are living in a perilous society, filled with all manners of trials, tribulations and adversities

But the Bible says, "Cast your anxieties on Him, because He cares for you."

I have had many opportunities in the past five years to become overwhelmed with worry and anxiety. However, each time I felt myself losing ground, sinking into despair, love lifted me. God positioned my feet to escape the mire clay and re-established me in a right relationship with Him.

Many have asked. "How after all you've been through, can you still smile, hold your head up, and exhibit such peace with the world?" My answer is simple, "Praise God! Offer praises to Him the midst of trouble and heartbreak, difficulties and disappointments.

In Matthew 6:25-34, Jesus resumes the theme of single-hearted devotion to God and deals with the related attitude of freedom from anxiety over daily needs. He illustrates the worthlessness of worry by showing that it is unnecessary, unfruitful, and unbecoming to Christians.

One morning, in the early part of 1997, during my regular meditation, God gave me my personal songs of praise, and thereafter, often my entire meditation would consist of singing praises to Him. It was only after He had brought me through many trails and storms that He revealed to me the awesomeness of His unmerited favor, mercy and grace.

We cannot praise God and be filled with anxiety at the same time.

By praising Him, we bring the presence of God into every situation and circumstance.

Here is the remedy for times when you feel alone, deserted or depressed. Praise God! However simply, compose your song and testimony of God's goodness in your life. Come humbly before the Lord, in repentance, seeking forgiveness, admitting that we are exceedingly insignificant beings. The results: God enters! His presence will live (take up residence) in our lives, circumstances and situations.

When we offer sacrificial praises to God, the Holy Spirit will activate the promise and release the promises into lives.

Allow praises of God to permeate your mind, heart and soul. Even if your eyes are filed with tears of disappointment, heartbreak and losses, "will" yourself to praise God, He will faithfully bless you, to experience that "inexpressible joy" that is spoken of in (1 Pet. 1:8) One thing that I know, we cannot praise God and be filled with anxiety at the same time.

When Jesus instructed us to resist being anxious. He didn't mean that we were not to be concerned about the affairs of ours lives, families, community and woes of society as whole. Remember, He said (Lev. 19: 18)" Love your neighbor as yourself," but we are not allowed to let our concerns overwhelm us. Praise Him, and be anxious for nothing!

Ethel J. Bates is a minister for the Allen Temple CME Church in Portland.