

Footprints of Civil Rights Set in Stone

International Civil Rights Walk of Fame opens

The new International Civil Rights Walk of Fame was recently unveiled with the footprints of 17 civil rights leaders embedded in granite and placed into the sidewalks at the Martin Luther King, Jr. National Historic site in Atlanta, Ga.

Included in this historic tribute to their legacy were Juanita J. Abernathy; Ralph David Abernathy Sr.; Ivan Allen Jr.; Julian Bond; Jimmy Carter, 39th president of the United States; Medgar Evers; Dorothy Height; Jesse L. Jackson Sr.; Frank M. Johnson; Lyndon Baines Johnson, 36th president of the United States; John Lewis; Evelyn G. Lowery; Joseph E. Lowery; Thurgood Marshall, the late Supreme Court Justice; Rosa Parks; Hosea Williams; and Andrew Young.

Hundreds of visitors turned out to capture the spirit of the moment by standing in the footprints of the honorees.

Members of communities of all colors, along with Jesse Jackson (center), stand united for civil rights at the new International Civil Rights Walk of Fame on the grounds of the Martin Luther King Jr. National Historic site in Atlanta, Ga.

"It was a very emotional moment to stand in Justice Thurgood Marshall's footsteps, said Judge Clarence Cooper, who was asked to represent the Marshall family at the event. "I am honored to be asked to represent this bold and courageous adjudicator - but not for his contribution, I would not be who I am today."

The International Civil Rights Walk of Fame was created to pay homage to the brave warriors of justice who sacrificed and struggled to make equality a reality for all and is expected to enhance the historic value of the area, enrich cultural heritage, and augment tourist attractions. The shoes used to create the footsteps were also on display during the unveiling program.

These civil rights giants represent the first phase of the Walk of Fame; there are 600 spaces designated for future placements of worthy footsteps.

Nursing Comes to Concordia University

Applicants accepted for new program

Concordia University of northeast Portland is launching a new Bachelor's of Science degree in Nursing. The program is slated to begin its first class of students in the summer of 2005 and applications will be accepted beginning Dec. 1.

"Concordia University is committed to a nursing program that is distinguished by its emphasis on building strong clinical skills, a deepened understanding of the human experience and for our students to become healthcare leaders for the transformation of society," said Dr. Joyce Zerwekh, the university's director of nursing.

Zerwekh said that partnerships and affiliations are currently being established with regional medical facilities such as Kaiser and Marquis Care to give students experience in clinical skills and an understanding of patients as persons.

More information about Concordia University and the Nursing program will be available at open house receptions on Oct. 21, Nov. 16 and Dec. 2. For more information on attending one of these receptions or to request an application, contact the Office of Admissions at 800-321-9371.

Established in 1905, Concordia University is a private Lutheran liberal arts university offering undergraduate degree programs in education, theology, arts and sciences, nursing, and business, as well as graduate programs in business and education.

IT'S LIKE THE ALPS WITHOUT THE LEDERHOSEN.

WALLOWA LAKE STATE PARK

People at Wallowa Lake don't wear lederhosen. They don't yodel either - except during the yearly Alpenfest - but the jagged snow-covered peaks of the Wallowa Mountains and the clear glacial lake do bear a strong resemblance to the Swiss Alps. And it is one of the finest vacation spots in all of Oregon.

Located just outside the town of Joseph, at the intersection of the Eagle Cap Wilderness and the mouth of Hells Canyon, Wallowa Lake offers some of Oregon's finest hiking, camping and fishing. One of the best ways to enjoy it is at Wallowa Lake State Park.

Surrounded by 9,000-foot peaks on three sides Wallowa Lake State Park is one of Oregon's most beautiful and best equipped state parks. There are campsites, cabins, and yurts as well as boat launches and a marina. Quiet, peaceful and rustic, Wallowa Lake State Park is a great place to get back to nature.

All across the state, Lottery profits help maintain state parks like Wallowa Lake and keep them open to the public. In fact, Lottery profits help support all 230 Oregon state parks. The ones you know and the ones you don't.

It does good things™

Over $123 million in Lottery profits has gone to Oregon state parks since 1999.

Lottery profits also support education, job creation and watershed enhancement projects across the state.
