Everything that Lives Must Die

'Blame it on the Moon' brings understanding

Tears of Joy Theatre celebrates El Dia de los Muertos (The Day of the Dead) with "Blame it on the Moon," on Friday, Nov. 4 at 7:30 p.m.; Saturday, Nov. 5 at 7:30 p.m.; and Sunday, Nov. 6 at 2 p.m.

Innovative puppetry and live music are featured in this bilingual story from an Ecuadorian myth about the creation of life that helps both children and adults understand why everything that lives must die.

The play is sparkled with humor and interweaves traditional folklorico dances.

Artistic director Nancy Aldrich directs the collaborative production. For the past two summers, Aldrich has been invited to Mexico to teach and judge at a puppetry festival.

Along with the featured play, Tears of Joy offers a bonus presentation. Onion Skin Soup is an adaptation of a Mexican story performed with exquisite shadow puppets. Audiences will be captivated by the story of a poor woman who begs and a rich woman who loves to eat.

Both performances are appropriate for ages seven and up and will be held at Winningstad Theatre, 1111 S.W. Broadway. The productions are funded by the Paul G. Allen Family Foundation and sponsored by The Portland Observer.

Tickets are $12 children and $15 adults and available by calling the box office at 360-695-0477 or 503-248-0557.

Founded in 1971, Tears of Joy Theatre is nationally recognized for its commitment to excellence and innovation in puppetry.
