Vinnegar Jazz Presents: Drummer, saxophonist Christopher Brown

Multi-instrumentalist Christopher Brown has come a long way since his student days at Wilson High School. Since moving to the New York area in 1999, Brown has gained a stellar reputation as one of the bright new talents on the scene, working with a who's who of jazz artists including Ray Charles, Benny Golson, David Sanborn, Antonio Hart, Javon Jackson and Roy Hargrove, and performing at venues ranging from New York's Blue Note jazz club, to the North Sea, Nice and Glasgow International Jazz Festivals.

Now this talented saxophonist, drummer and composer--and son of Portland drum legend Mel Brown-- returns to Portland as the featured artist at the 3rd Annual Leroy Vinnegar Jazz Institute Young Artist Jazz Concert on Wednesday, Feb. 21 at 7:30 p.m. at The Old Church, 1422 S.W. 11th Ave. Adult tickets $12 on the day of show. Tickets are available at the PSU box office or by calling 503-725-3307.

Idol Loser Wins at Grammys

Robyn Troup performs Feb. 11 at the 49th Annual Grammy Awards. Troup, 19, of Houston sang with Justin Timberlake and rapper T.I. after winning the 'My Grammy Moment' reality TV-style contest. But just three days later on 'American Idol,' Troup was seen being rejected by the Fox talent contest's judges in an episode that was taped before the Grammys. (AP photo)
