

"Swing is like being on a tight-rope or rollercoaster.
It's like walking in space. It's like a soufflé:
It rises and rises and rises."

What Does It Take To Be an Astronaut?

Meet the real thing at OMSI

Ever wonder what it's like in outer space? Or how hard it is to train to become an astronaut? And just how does a person eat in zero gravity? Now is your chance to hear the answers to these questions and more at the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry and the Rotary Club of Portland welcome astronauts Mark L. Polansky and Robert L. Curbeam, Jr. to a special speaking engagement in OMSI's auditorium, Wednesday, March 28 at 10 a.m.

With a combined total of 1,829 hours in space, Astronauts Polansky and Curbeam will discuss their space travel experiences and answer questions from the audience.

This event is free with OMSI admission and tickets may be picked up in advance at OMSI's front desk, 1945 SE Water Ave., or ordered online at www.oms.edu. For general information call 503-797-4000.

Astronaut Robert L. Curbeam, who has logged more than 593 hours in space, will speak at OMSI on Wednesday, March 28.

Sevendust Rocks the Roseland

Sevendust, the rock/hardcore/metal band from Atlanta, Ga. comes to Portland on March 27 with opening acts Diecast, Red and Invitiro.

Formed in 1994, Sevendust recently release their sixth album

"Alpha." The new album is considered to be vintage 'Dust material, as the band revisits the ferocious attack that made early albums like "Sevendust" and "Home" cult classics among their fans.

Sevendust will play the Roseland Theater, 8 N.W. 6th Ave., on Tuesday, March 27. The all-ages show starts at 7 p.m.

Tickets are available through all TicketsWest outlets or by visiting www.ticketswest.com.
