

Art Beat to Spread across PCC Campuses

Art Beat 2007 will spread across all three PCC campuses and the Southeast Center from Monday, May 7 through Friday, May 11, offering students and the community access to local, regional and national artists, as well as an extensive collection of visual art, dance, music, theater and literary events to help expose them to art.

The best part of Art Beat is that it is free and open to the public.

To commemorate the 20th year of the celebration, there will be an exhibition of the featured artwork PCC has acquired through the years. The entire collection and will be on display in Terrell Hall 102 at the Cascade Campus in north Portland. Seen as a totality, it mirrors the diversity of the community: colorful, complex and rich.

Parking at all three campuses, plus the Southeast Center, is free during Art Beat.

For a complete schedule, visit the website artbeat.pcc.edu.

Mylan Rakich, a large scale metal sculptor and assistant sculpture professor at Portland State University, is one of the featured artists at Portland Community College's 20th Anniversary Art Beat.

"Music doesn't lie. If there is something to be changed in this world, then it can only happen through music."

Aspen Santa Fe Ballet

Elizabeth Johansen performs with the Aspen Santa Fe Ballet Company, visiting Portland on Thursday, May 10.

White Bird concludes its season with the vibrant Aspen Santa Fe Ballet, a troupe that stands at the forefront of American contemporary dance.

Splitting its home between Aspen, Colo. and Santa Fe, N.M., the company is led by Jean-Philippe Malaty, one of America's outstanding ballet teachers, and Tom Mossbrucker, formerly one of Joffrey Ballet's most celebrated dancers. The company's 10 superb dancers perform an eclectic repertory by the world's foremost contemporary choreographers.

This one-time performance is Thursday, May 10 at 7:30 p.m. at the Arlene Schnitzer Concert Hall, 1037 S.W. Broadway. Fortickets and more information, visit whitebird.org.

Romantic Comedy Concludes Run

Jefferson's multicultural films

The last Jefferson High School Multicultural Film of the school year is an award-winning romantic comedy that allows us all to become witnesses to romance.

Il Postino (The Postman) takes you along a fisherman's inspirational path as he finds the way to his true love through poetry.

This film, as always, is a free presentation at the Jefferson High School Campus, 5210 N. Kerby Ave., Monday, May 7 in room C-39 from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

The goal of the film series is to keep the unity in our community while celebrating and nurturing individual cultures, and through ongoing conversations, partnerships are forged.
