

Wild Mushroom Hunting

The fall season's lower temperatures and increased rainfall means that wild mushroom season has finally arrived. Metro is offering a weekend class to help people identify and gather safe varieties of these ancient and elusive organisms. You will learn how to compare a range of poisonous and edible specimens and experience the amazing variety of shapes, colors, textures and smells that make these life forms so intriguing. Registration is required by calling 503-797-1715.
